

Nation's Officials Expect Sizeable Drop in Relief Load in Month of April

Spring Farm and Construction Work Are Also Expected To Reduce Government Expenditures of 190 Millions a Month.

PEAK IS REACHED

Large Amount of Total Relief Costs Can Be Laid to Policy of Relief Standards.

Washington, March 19 (AP).—The peak of the nation's relief load appears to have been reached, officials said today, and April should see a sizeable drop in the more than 20,000,000 now receiving help.

The beginning of spring farm and construction work, Federal Emergency Relief Administration men said, will reduce the outlays that have been costing federal, state and local governments as high as $190,000,000 a month.

They expressed the hope private industry would also be able to absorb more workers. If this happens on a sufficient scale, it is contended, it will enable the government to spend less on the huge work relief program which President Roosevelt plans Congress will fund.

FERA's figures showed 4,603,000 families receiving relief in January. Although this represented an almost steady increase since last May, indications were there was a slight decline in February.

In December, 1934, the average monthly benefit for each family was $23.37 as compared with $26.39 in October, $24.10 in September, $18.22 in November, 1933, and $15.59 in May, 1933. Some allowances must be made, however, between the warm and cold month figures for heavier clothing, fuel, etc.

A large amount of the total increased relief costs, officials said, can be laid directly to this definite policy of raising the standards of relief, providing more grants for medical care, and larger grants to meet higher food and rent costs.

Within a short time after the creation of the FERA in May, 1933, special programs were started to improve, officials said, the standards and adequacy of relief and to aid special groups. These programs included transient care, education, emergency work, rural rehabilitation, drought relief, distribution of surplus crops and submarginal land purchases.

Coincident with the close of the civil works program, on which the federal government expended $314,000,000 exclusive of relief funds, FERA began an emergency work program which now employs more than 2,200,000 persons. These workers are paid local prevailing wages for the particular type of work done, with the hours of work adjusted to meet family budgetary needs as estimated by case workers.

EAST WINDHAM MAN DIES IN FIRE THAT DESTROYS HOME.

Frank DuBois, 40 years old, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed his home Sunday night, and his body was found in the smoldering ruins Monday morning. DuBois, who lived alone in a house which was situated about 100 feet back of the road between Windham and East Windham, was last seen alive about midnight, when he was in a place at Hensonville. It is not known what time the fire started. Eugene Butts of East Windham happened to glance in the direction of the DuBois home about 6 o'clock Monday morning and saw smoke. He went to the place and found the house had been burned to the ground.

Carl Duisberg Dies

Berlin, March 19 (AP).—Carl Duisberg, founder and president of the powerful German dye trust which is playing a prominent part in the German rearmament program, died today at the age of 74.

Governor Hoffman Denies Statement

Trenton, N. J., March 19 (AP).—Governor Harold G. Hoffman said today he had made "no promises or commitments" in connection with the case of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

"I have not discussed the Hauptmann case officially with any person," the governor said when he was asked to comment on the report Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, had told his client he had "personal assurance from the governor of New Jersey that Hauptmann's death sentence would be commuted if he confessed."

"I have made no promises or commitments, nor do I in connection with any case coming before the courts," Hoffman asserted.

However, P. Low, one of Hauptmann's guards during his trial for the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby, said in Huntington, N. Y., last night he had heard Reilly tell the German carpenter he had "personal assurance" the governor would commute the sentence to life imprisonment if he "talked."

"I got nothing to say, nothing to confess, I am innocent," Low said Hauptmann replied.

Rights of Way for 9-W By-pass Are Obtained by City and County

Expected That State Highway Department Will Include It In Next Available Letting the Last of Month or Early in April—Revised Plans Are Approved and All Preliminary Details for Construction of Road Now Completed.

Three Measures Form Bulwark of Bonus Talk

Washington, March 19 (AP).—Here are the bills which are the subject of most talk as the House of Representatives heads into the debate.

Patman bill—Introduced by Rep. Patman (D., Texas). It would pay the $2,000,000,000 ex-soldiers' bonus immediately through the issuance of new currency, treasury notes.

Vinson-American Legion bill—Introduced by Rep. Vinson (D., Ky.); it also would pay the bonus immediately. It provides no particular method of raising the money, leaving that matter to the government.

Tydings-Cochran-Mc Reynolds compromise bill—Introduced in the Senate by Senator Tydings (D., Md.) and put forward in the House in similar form by other legislators. It would give the veterans negotiable bonds instead of cash. Roughly speaking, if a veteran held until 1945 the bonds he received for a $1,000 bonus certificate, he would be paid approximately $1,000 in cash. If he sold the bonds now he would get about $798.

Supreme Court Is Again Faced With The No Work Problem

No Cases in Which Attorneys Were Ready Monday When Court Convened Despite Long List on Calendar—Two Settlements Announced.

Despite the new rule recently adopted to prevent delays in supreme court and keep the court busy, Judge Russell found himself faced with the same old problem, no work to do. Although there were several cases on the day calendar and long list on the alarm calendar there were no cases in which attorneys were ready Monday morning when court convened. At that time Judge Russell took an adjournment until 2 o'clock when again the court was faced with the no work problem. This break in court sustained Judge Russell's expression which he made early in the term when the new rule was brought to his attention. At that time he said the rule was good in theory but it did not work out in either Albany or in Troy where a similar rule was in effect.

When no business was ready Judge Russell adjourned court until 10 o'clock this morning. Jurors were excused until that time.

Two settlements were announced Monday. No. 274, General Exchange Insurance Corporation, etc., against John A. Schottler, an action for property damage arising out of alleged negligence was announced as settled by A. J. Cook who appeared for the defendant. No. 271, Mildred Macko, an infant by guardian, against Lina J. Von Soosten, an action to recover for dog bite, was announced settled. Flanagan & Kaecher for plaintiff and Robert G. Grover for defendant.

No. 117, Deyss Kardon against Otto Sturm, an action for slander, was dismissed on motion of Francis T. Murray, attorney for defendant, who moved for a dismissal with costs when the plaintiff's attorney stated he was unable to proceed with the trial because of absence of an important witness and also on the grounds that he had just been substituted in the case and was not familiar with the case. Arthur B. Ewig, attorney of record for plaintiff, was succeeded by Herman Katz. Mr. Katz said he had been substituted and received the papers in the case only that morning and had not been given sufficient time to prepare for trial. He asked a week to prepare on the theory that one of the important witnesses was employed on a large and it would take time to locate him.

Mr. Murray objected to a delay, stating that the case had been on the day calendar for a week and under the rule once a case was on the day calendar it must either be tried or dismissed when reached unless of some real reason which arose after the case had been placed on the day calendar. He said Mr. Katz had known the case was on the calendar and had talked about the case last week and there was no reason why witnesses had not been located as time had been ample. Further Mr. Murray argued that the defendant had been in court at the last term for a long time ready for trial but the plaintiff had moved the case over on the expense of witness. At that time Judge Foster put the case over with the understanding that it would be disposed of at this term and upon payment of $25 witness fees to defendant. These fees, he said, had not been paid. He asked the court to dismiss the case. The defendant, he said, was employed in New Jersey and had been present in court for several days with witnesses. Judge Russell dismissed the complaint with costs.

Court recessed until 10 o'clock this morning.

The Rights of Way Committee of the Board of Supervisors reported this morning that it had obtained all of the needed-rights of way for the construction of the East Chester street By-pass of Route 9-W. The city authorities have the needed rights of way in the city, and all of the preliminary work and details for the construction of the By-pass over East Chester street have been completed and it is expected that the state highway department will include the road in the next available letting, either the last of this month or early in April.

As the By-pass through East Chester street will be only 30 feet wide, it was necessary for the city authorities to adopt a no parking ordinance for East Chester street on the westerly side of the street from Broadway to a point near the intersection of Wood street. Last week the Common Council adopted the ordinance.

The emergency relief bureau is pushing the work of laying a new sewer and water main in East Chester street, and expects to have the work completed in time so that it will not hold up construction of the road as soon as the contract is let by the state.

In the city the By-pass will use East Chester street from Broadway and over Flatbush avenue through property of the City Home to the city limits. The rights of way from the city limits to where the By-pass books on to 9-W just beyond the Saugerles road railroad crossing, have now been obtained by the supervisors committee.

The new By-pass will be of concrete construction from curb to curb on East Chester street and over the new alignment to where the road books onto 9-W.

TWO MEN ARRESTED FOR FIGHTING, FINED $10 EACH

Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning Officer Fitzgerald found two men staging a fight on lower Hasbrouck avenue, and placed them under arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct. The men were John Wisneski of 179 Murray street and Irving Ballson of 24 Chambers street. Later in police court each man pleaded guilty and was fined $10. They paid their fines.

Johnson at Chicago

Chicago, March 19 (AP).—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson says he believes the Blue Eagle has a "noose around its neck" and is being choked to death. The fiery former NRA administrator told an audience last night that the bird, however, "might be brought back to life." He said the NRA had done more for the little fellow than anything else that has been done for business. Johnson, who appeared as guest lecturer on a Northwestern University series, said he was "not here to continue the recent echoing controversy with Huey Long or Father Coughlin. I have yet to answer their lies and insinuations." He promised he would answer when they "put it all on record." He lauded the Roosevelt program, predicted new pioneers in "economic migrations," expressed no fear of the spread of college "Reds."

Henry Ross Acquitted

Leeds, Eng., March 19 (AP).—Henry Ross, accused of kidnapping a boy in England 21 years ago and taking him to New Jersey, was acquitted by a jury today at the court's direction. In a trembling voice, the white-haired Ross pleaded not guilty. The prosecution offered no evidence. When Ross was committed to trial February 7 it was charged he had obtained permission to take John William Whitely, 4, on a fishing trip. Instead, it was said, he boarded a ship for the United States and settled with the boy in Newark. Authorities quoted Ross as saying the boy's mother told him he was the father. She denied saying this. A warrant for Ross' arrest was issued in 1914 but was not served until last January. Ross returned to England in 1922.

Rates for Long Life

New York, March 19 (AP).—If you wish to live long, Arthur Dougherty, New York biologist, told a symposium on physical fitness, leave liquor and tobacco alone. Up rose John W. Wood, 88, of Springfield, Mass., and the chairman asked him if he took a drink once in a while. "Twice in a while," replied the octogenarian. Then came Isaac Newton Lewis, 98, of Jamaica, who was asked if he smoked. He did, it seemed, and had since he was 19. Without warning, Bella Tokaji of Brooklyn, a mere 72, bounced to his feet, his great white mustache waving as he leaned forward and snarled: "I like to fight. My pet subject is politics."

27 Killed in Riot

Munitions Group Drafts Sweeping Plan to Limit All Heavy War Profits

Industrial Salaries Would Be Put at Top of $10,000 With 3 Per Cent Allowed on Most Profits in Proposed Plan.

PLAN IN OUTLINE

Assessment, Collection of Income Taxes Quarterly Is Item on List; Salary Publicity Another.

Washington, March 19 (AP).—A sweeping plan for wiping out heavy war profits by limiting industrial salaries to $10,000 a year and seizing virtually all profits over three per cent was made public today by the senate munitions committee.

It was outlined by John T. Flynn, New York writer, who was retained by the committee to put into shape its findings bearing on efforts to make war unprofitable.

"It is more important to prevent war," Flynn said, gesturing with his hands, "than to take the profits out of war."

Committee members, who looked upon the red-faced, gray-haired writer as an authority on war taxing methods, sat quietly attentive as he talked, rarely interrupting with a question.

Flynn's girl secretary sat beside him, smoking as he testified.

He roughly outlined the committee's plan as follows:

"To take 50 per cent of the first 6 per cent profits of corporations, and 100 per cent on all over that in excess profits."

"To limit all individual incomes to $10,000 and to take all over that in income taxes."

"To impose income taxes on everybody from $1,000 or less up in sufficient amount to cover war expenses."

"To assess and collect income taxes quarterly out of income as it is made."

"To check numerous known methods of defeating income tax levies."

"Publicity of all salaries immediately upon declaration of war."

"Industrial management draft"—all general officers of corporations to be registered in a draft of management and when deemed necessary inducted into military forces of the United States.

"Close all commodity exchanges, forbid speculation in commodities, fix commodity prices at proper parties and allocate to essential processors."

"Regulate all new private financing through a war finance agency."

"A war finance corporation to assist in financing of essential war industries."

"Commandeering of essential industries and services."

"Licensing industries, establishment of priorities in purchasing and when essential, price-fixing."

Steigut Given Axe

Albany, N. Y., March 19 (AP).—Speaker Irwin Steigut of the New York state assembly has a new type of gavel and the clerks who sit in front of him have more use than ever for their steel helmets. It's an axe, presented by Republicans with the terse comment: "It's a reminder of what happens to our Republican bills in the powerful rules committee of which you are in charge, Mr. Speaker." For the past week Steigut has had trouble keeping the head on his regular gavel when he pounded for order. Several times it has bounced in the general direction of the clerks and the Republicans were "fearful" one of them would get hurt. Last night the clerks took matters in their own hands, however, and appeared wearing steel helmets.

No Change in Howe's Condition

Washington, March 19 (AP).—Louis M. Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, showed no improvement today in his serious illness. The White House, where he is confined with a cardiac ailment, issued the following statement: "Secretary Howe passed a comfortable night but no improvement in his condition has been noted by attending physicians."

Utility Strike Deferred

New York, March 19 (AP).—The long-threatened strike of utilities employees, calculated to paralyze a great city's electric service, was deferred today through the efforts of mediators. Eugene M. Herrick, director of the National Labor Board, and conciliators in the dispute between the Brooklyn Edison Company and the Brotherhood of Utility Employees, said that the union had decided to defer its deadline for the walk-out.

Church Fire

New York, March 19 (AP).—Five hundred worshippers fled quickly out of the Church of Mary, Help of Christians, 424 East Twelfth street today as fire crackled through the woodwork of a side altar. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

All Occupants Dead

Brussels, March 19 (AP).—A message to the Belgian ministry today reported the falling of the plane in which Edward Benard, governor of French Equatorial Africa, and his party had been visiting, with all its occupants dead.

Fortification of Rhine Is Seen As Next Nazi Act of Defiance

Roosevelt Maintains Attitude of Extreme Caution On Germany

Washington, March 19 (AP).—The Roosevelt administration today adopted an attitude of extreme caution in its consideration of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty and of its separate peace with the United States.

President Roosevelt was represented at the White House as intending to take time to assay the developments fully. Accordingly, it was felt that there was little prospect of a quick decision on steps, if any, that might be taken by this government.

Meanwhile, there was no sign of concern at the White House at the whirl of events abroad.

Published reports that the President is under strong pressure to keep hands off the German armaments situation were denied at the White House, where it was said Mr. Roosevelt neither has received any such advice nor asked for any.

The President had a luncheon talk today with William C. Bullitt, ambassador to Russia, but it was emphasized that this engagement, made several days ago, had no relation to the German armaments move.

Conversations continued during the day at the state department between Secretary Hull and Norman Davis, ambassador-at-large and personal European observer for the President. The usual silence was preserved in that quarter.

There was likelihood that they might meet with President Roosevelt again late today as they did yesterday but there was no official announcement on this subject.

President Roosevelt and his advisers on foreign affairs were expected to consult today on the advisability of protesting against Germany's violation of the American-German peace treaty.

It was learned authoritatively that, while weighing all possible courses of action, American officials have not yet definitely decided whether to "make representations" against military expansion of the Reich in defiance of provisions of the Versailles treaty, and the American accord, enter into consultation with the former allies on possible joint action, or attempt to avoid any entanglements by ignoring the developments in Europe.

There was no immediate comment in official circles on Berlin reports that the United States was considering notifying Germany that increasing its armed forces to 500,000 men is an open violation of the peace treaty.

What, if any, action is taken by the United States government depends on future developments only now taking shadowy form in Europe's chancelleries, it was said.

Grand Jury Probe Ordered

Columbus, O., March 19 (AP).—A grand jury investigation of Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins' charges that Governor Martin L. Davey's campaign committee solicited funds from firms selling goods to the Ohio Relief Commission was ordered today. Affidavits supporting Hopkins' assertion that he had "concocted evidence" to back up his charge of a "shakedown" were received by Attorney General John W. Bricker, a Republican, and Donald J. Hoskins, Franklin county prosecutor. Hopkins said the Franklin county (Columbus) grand jury, now in session, would take up the case Thursday.

Miami Beach, Fla., March 19 (AP).

A fortune in jewels taken from Mrs. Margaret Bell, wealthy New Yorker, by two masked bandits here January 26, and mysteriously returned to police last night, today awaited her identification. Detective Chief Eugene E. Bryant reported finding the loot, variously appraised at $15,000 to $20,000, in his automobile after he and an insurance company detective had responded to an anonymous phone call summoning them to a beach hotel.

Poland, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia Complete List of Military Equipment

Washington, March 19 (AP).—The Versailles treaty to a standing army of 100,000. Some observers, however, point to her military-trained police and the private militia organizations as the basis for an estimate that she has trained 750,000 men in the last five years and could put 1,500,000 in the field.

Poland, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia complete the list of military European nations. Born of the World War, they have built their war machine wholly since that time, all on the French model.

Poland can place an army of 1,500,000 in the field; Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, each 1,000,000. The Polish standing army numbers 280,000; Yugoslavia, 130,000; and Czechoslovakia 100,000.

Albany, N. Y., March 19 (AP).—Speeding up his work to keep step with the volume of legislation being enacted in the closing days of the 1935 legislature, Governor Herbert H. Lehman today asked his staff to take 24 more measures, bringing the total now laws thus far this session to 191. The latest bills to be enacted into law are words of condolence and minor matters.

Belgium Cabinet Crisis May Upset the Gold Bloc

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

London, March 19.—A diplomatic source declared today that Belgium, whose cabinet headed by Premier Georges Theunis resigned today, will have difficulties in getting a new cabinet to support the gold standard and that if Belgium departs officially from the gold basis, she may take other members of the gold bloc with her.

As official and diplomatic circles began their study of the situation created in Brussels, exchange transactions reacted sharply, gold currencies weakened in relation to the British pound and the United States dollar slid down in sympathy.

Although the dollar opened firm at 4.75 1/2 to the pound, as compared with yesterday's close of 4.75 1/2, it later slipped to 4.75 1/2.

The dollar closed officially at 4.77 1/2 to the pound, a net loss of 1/2 cent to the pound.

The French franc closed at 72.33 to the pound as compared to yesterday's close of 72.18, and the belga closed at 20.44 to the pound after touching 20.08.

Military Experts Say 17 Million Men Ready For Vast Mobilization

New York, March 19 (AP).—Military experts looked behind a column of standing armies 3,500,000 strong and pondered today the vast European reserve force—17,000,000 men—ready for mobilization in event of war.

To train these 20,500,000 soldiers the leading military nations of Europe have spent 45 billion dollars since the World War.

As statesmen studied Great Britain's protest that Germany was endangering security by conscripting a standing army of 500,000, European nations were spending 30 to 40 per cent of their incomes "for defense."

Great Britain remained the only major power whose army was recruited on a voluntary basis. The others demand that their young men serve an average of two years with the colors.

France and Italy, developers of the greatest known war machines in Europe, have followed notably similar designs.

Both have heavily fortified frontiers as first lines of defense. Both call their citizens to the colors at the age of 21. In France the period of active service is two years and reservist duty ends at 49. The Italian is on active duty 18 months, but on reserve until 55.

The French standing army numbers 600,000; some 2,500,000 mobilizable men complete her immediate strength. The French air force, for which a large part of the annual $72,200,000 military budget goes, has 3,000 planes.

Italy's standing army is approximately 700,000 with an equal number in reserve. She spends $212,000,000 annually on armament, devoting huge sums to artillery for the defense of the vulnerable Alpine passes.

Great Britain has a standing army of 450,000 volunteers. They are among the best trained and best equipped in the world. Britain, with a budget of $550,000,000, is turning to mechanization of highly mobile units. She has 1,500,000 additional mobilizable troops and 7,125 planes.

Germany and Russia puzzle the military minds: Russia because no one knows how well she has trained and equipped her forces; Germany because no one knows whether she has trained her men.

Russia spends $400,000,000 a year training annual classes of 800,000 men in addition to her standing army of more than 700,000. It is estimated she could equip—in some fashion—a partly trained army of 2,000,000 soldiers.

Germany has been limited by the Versailles treaty to a standing army of 100,000. Some observers, however, point to her military-trained police and the private militia organizations as the basis for an estimate that she has trained 750,000 men in the last five years and could put 1,500,000 in the field.

Big Squadron of Planes in Flight Over Berlin Taken as a Direct Rejection of the Versailles Treaty.

BRITISH CRITICISED

French and Russians Say Great Britain's Note Was "Weak"; Seen on Side of Germany.

(By The Associated Press)

Germany flew a big squadron of fighting airplanes over Berlin today in proof of the declaration that the arms clauses of the treaty of Versailles no longer apply to Germany and official German sources intimated that the next portion of the treaty to go would be that preventing Germany from building fortifications along the Rhine.

Both the French and the Russians referred to Great Britain's protest against German rearmament as "weak" and the Russians added to this criticism the claim that Great Britain had "capitulated" to Germany.

Well-informed sources in Berlin said they would not be surprised if the United States would protest to Germany against the reestablishment of a complete German armament as a violation of the German-American treaty.

In Washington, however, President Roosevelt and his advisers adopted an attitude of extreme caution and no word was forthcoming from the White House as to what action, if any, the United States might take.

In answer to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's announcement on a conscription German army, the finance committee of the French Chamber of Deputies approved an appropriation of 20,000,000 francs ($1,320,000) for reimbursement bonuses in the French army.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain told the House of Commons that the government would appoint a special subcommittee to investigate England's defenses against aerial attack.

The British government asked the commons for an appropriation of nearly $18,000,000 this year more than last year for air defense.

A demand for the restoration of conscription in Austria was made by Minister of the Interior Emil Fey in his newspaper, the Oesterreich Abendzeitung. He declared that now is the time for conscription "to be taken up by other states which have been restricted in military establishments by the peace treaty."

Berlin Exultant.

Berlin, March 19.—A squadron of German bombers and pursuit planes roared over Berlin today in the first military air maneuvers since the World War as Germany, exulting in Reichsfuehrer Hitler's announcement that Germany was rearmed, feverishly celebrated this mass demonstration of fitness to fight.

Even as the planes flew overhead, rumors flew through Berlin that the United States would protest against the violation of the German-American peace treaty and that Germany had concluded a military alliance with Japan.

At the same time German officials said that, now that the arms limitation imposed by the treaty of Versailles had been disregarded, the demilitarized Rhineland zones provisions of the treaty would be next to be eliminated—unless France accepts the demilitarization of similar areas on French soil.

Germany's fighting planes appeared suddenly over the capital this afternoon. They flew low. The roar of their motors filled the streets with thunder.

For almost an hour they crossed and crisscrossed the city. The entire population of Berlin rushed out of houses and offices. The people stood in the streets and hung out of windows, shouting and waving.

The city's normal life was halted.

Increased Income Tax Collections

Washington, March 19 (AP).—Increased income tax collections generally throughout the country were reported today by Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, who said that only six collection districts out of a total of 64 had shown a decrease from last year's figures.

The treasury's latest statement showing its financial position at the close of business March 16, listed March income tax payments of $12,221,241 as against $12,000,259 on the comparable date of last year. However, Helvering said, approximately $5,000,000 which the collectors had on hand was undeposited. He believed the first 15 days' collections would aggregate about $246,000,000 when final returns were in.

It was explained that several days were required for returns to find their way into the treasury as they must be checked, regardless of the form in which they are received, through the Federal Reserve Banks.

Undeclared Actions In Supreme Court

Two undeclared actions were brought to the attention of supreme court this morning at a short session of the court. No other cases were ready and Judge Russell excused the jurors until Wednesday morning.

Ephraim Yaffe of Ellenville sued the Federation of Hotelmen Associations of Sullivan, Ulster and Adjoining Counties, Inc. for $2,000 salary due him for work he did for the association as secretary and as editor of the association's paper which he published during 1930 and 1931. There was no defense. He offered proof that on November 3, 1930, he was hired under a resolution of the board of directors to act as secretary and to edit their hotel paper. The salary was $1,000 a year. He claims he did the work but at the end of the first year there was a shortage of money and he did not get his salary. He continued to serve for another year. Philip Slusky appeared for plaintiff with A. J. Cook of counsel. The jury returned a verdict for plaintiff for $2,000 and interest.

A jury was then taken in No. 123, an action for goods sold, brought by Wilson-Western Sporting Goods Company against Harry Rosenstock of Ellenville. H. Westlake Coons appeared for plaintiff and there was no appearance on the part of defendant. The action is for sporting goods sold defendant. After the jury had been taken a short recess was taken to await the arrival of the plaintiff who was coming by train.

Two cases were announced as settled. No. 168, Irving Rathgeb against Fred Yannantuono and another, an action for property damages. John F. Wadlin for plaintiff and James A. Noonan for defendant. No. 199, Hugh S. Chidister against Dairyman's League Cooperative Association, Inc., a negligence action. George F. Kaufman for plaintiff and J. F. Lucey for defendant. The action grew out of a collision with a milk truck on the Saugerties road.

The day calendar now is: No. 163 on trial, 16, 160, 161, 169, 167, 7, 178, 179, 334 and 33.

LITTLE INCREASE IN SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

Albany, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—Little, if any, increase in school attendance is anticipated by state education officials if the New York legislature enacts legislation now before it increasing the compulsory school age from 14 to 16 years.

The Senate already has given approval to the measure, after considerable debate, and it now awaits action in the Lower House.

"The only effect this bill would have on the schools would be to make permanent regulation of the NRA age-raising law now in force," Charles L. Mosher, director of the attendance and child accounting division of the State Department of Education, said.

"Even if the bill does not pass indications are that all but 6,300 children between 14 and 16 will be in school. Industry has no jobs for them and labor interests don't want them to take jobs of older people."

Bankers Protest Federal Reserve Law

Washington, March 19 (AP)—An outbreak of protest in the banking field was disclosed today in high official quarters, which said that many small state banks are vigorously criticizing the present law compelling them to join the Federal Reserve System by July 1, 1937, in order to retain deposit insurance.

The amended Banking Act of 1933 which created the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, says state banks not members of the reserve system will lose the privilege of insurance after July 1, 1937. They contend they would be forced out of business through inability to compete with banks in which deposits were insured.

At the time the provision was enacted it was regarded by many observers as a step toward greater unification of the banking structure under the supervision of the comptroller of the currency and the Federal Reserve Board.

Protest meetings, it was said, have already been held in many sections to solidify sentiment against the provision and conveying it to Congress before the present session ends.

One contention prompting the complaints appears to be that capital requirements for membership in the reserve system are too high for many of the 7,800 state banks not now members. Many of the banks also are insisting that their heavy holdings of real estate paper which is not eligible for rediscount at the reserve banks serve as a further deterrent to membership in the system.

Officials here contend the new Banking Act of 1933, liberalizing the requirements of reserve membership as well as broadening the base of eligible paper, goes far to meet the two salient points raised by the protesting banks.

Many small banks, it further developed, are contending to protest the branch banking system, declaring they cannot survive the competition of large city branches. They contend branch banking is a plan to rid the country of small institutions and create a national system. Proponents of branch banking say it is necessary to a sound system.

"Mimic War" Planned in State in August

Washington, March 19 (AP)—Mobilization of approximately 60,000 soldiers in the greatest peace-time "mimic war" ever conducted in the United States is being planned by the war department.

Details, made known in part today at the department, call for the concentration of man power at Pine Camp, in northern New York, during August, probably the last two weeks of the month.

Major-General Dennis E. Nolan, commanding the first army—the United States has four such armies—will have charge of the operations under present plans.

In addition to the entire mobile strength of the first army all National Guard units in the First Army Area will be summoned to arms provided congress supplies the money. The war department has asked for $279,630 for the mass drill. The department's appropriation bill is now in a conference of senate and house committees.

The First Army Area includes New York state which has a national guard enrollment of 20,041.

Present strength of the First Army is 33,990 men and all of these except skeleton staffs to be left at the various posts would be sent to Pine Camp.

Salt in Public Water Seen as Possibility

Albany, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—Fear that the salt Atlantic Ocean will seep into water supplies in Brooklyn and Long Island has prompted the senate of the New York legislature to vote for regulation of well drillers.

The state conservation department has reported that excessive well drilling has taxed the fresh water supply and salt water threatens to flow in.

The senate last night voted 27 to 17 in favor of Senator James J. Crawford's bill charging well drillers a $2 fee for licenses, as a regulatory measure. The bill passed over the vigorous objection of George L. Thompson.

Senator William T. Byrne, Albany Democrat, informed the senate that the fresh water found in the wells on the island actually comes from the Adirondack Mountains 200 miles away on the New York mainland. Byrne said geologists had found the water flows under the ocean, protected from salt water beneath a rock ledge, to reach the island.

Richberg Calls Johnson "Popular Humorist"

Washington, March 19 (AP)—Donald R. Richberg has joined in the radio war, with a speech in which he criticized his old boss, Hugh Johnson, as a "popular humorist" and aimed what many believed to be inferential blows in the direction of Senator Huey Long and Father Charles E. Coughlin.

Speaking in the national radio forum of the Washington Evening Star, the head of the National Emergency Council called on the country last night to rally to the "Progressives" as against the "Old Guard" and "The Destroyers."

The Old Guard, he said would "wreck recovery" by "doing nothing except obstruct progress" and the Destroyers "would drive us into civil war" by fomenting class conflicts.

"Are the shouters, the exhorters and the wise-crackers," he asked, "going to dominate public thinking, or, before long, will a bored and noise weary people turn off the radios, turn away from the bellowing, in the press and on the platform, of Obstructionists and Destroyers and listen to Progressive-minded leaders in business and politics?"

TOURISTS WELCOME.

A bill before the New York state legislature proposes a new bureau of state publicity and an appropriation of $100,000 to operate an intensive campaign for tourists. It has been figured that if the normal amount of tourist travel in the state can be increased by this means even so little as one-sixth of one per cent, it will more than pay the cost of the publicity. In a normal year visitors to the state spend $60,000,000 there. It is generally agreed that the tourist dollar benefits everybody because it is so widely distributed.

It is sensible of New York to get into the game. Maine has already appropriated $75,000 for a similar purpose. New Hampshire's publicity fund is $45,000 and Vermont's is $25,000. Every state that has any scenic beauty, historical interest, climatic appeal or entertainment possibilities (and don't they all?) has a right to tell the world, and particularly the tourist world, all about it. Americans like to travel, and they are learning that it is pleasant to leave their beaten trails and seek new adventures in new scenes. They like to study the folders of publicity bureaus, to pore over road maps. They like to jump into the car (or train or bus or boat or plane) and go for vacations in places unfamiliar to them. From all appearances they are not going to lack suggestions and invitations. Before long we'll all know a lot more about our own land than we ever did before.

MEN WHO COOK.

A newspaper man wrote a nice little piece for his paper about the culinary skill of three men in the community. And then the fun began. A few days later he had to write another, and longer, piece on the same subject because so many men were indignant at being left out of the first one, and so many wives and friends were indignant for them. It appears that cooking is one of the favorite hobbies of a lot of men in that city.

There are professors from the university whose public fame lies in the fields of languages, biology, literature and science, but all of whom are skilled in preparing tasty dishes. There are business executives, landscape architects, insurance men, newspaper men, public men, attorneys, politicians, a Boy Scout executive, and so on, who cook every now and then for the fun of it, and whose concoctions are much admired.

These dishes range from luscious broiled steaks, scrambled eggs de luxe, baked apple, stew (both Mulligan and Georgian Brunswick), and chocolate cake to what have you. Some of the cookery artists collect interesting recipes and others are known for their own delicious inventions. This is all strictly amateur cooking, let it be understood. These capable chefs do not take over the family meals regularly, nor even on "maids' day off." They cook when the spirit moves them, and only foolish wives would make the mistake of trying to imitate that spirit for them.

LESS RAH-RAHING.

The "Rah-rah boys," according to a literary digest symposium, is disappearing from the colleges. College editors agree on that point. It is a blessing of hard times, says a student editor in the University of Minnesota. "Students now want dollar-for-dollar value in education." A student in the University of California expresses this thought as follows: "Economic necessity has forced thought into the life of college students. Foolish bragging and tradition, constantly expensive fraternities, excessive drinking and gambling are disappearing. Serious thought on economic and political problems is increasing."

The Yale Daily News reports great progress in students' "awareness and thinking," as do student organs in various other institutions. "There is a marked trend toward academic, political and international discussions by students, rather than the campus politics of old days," says a University of Chicago paper. And with more thought, it is natural that there should be less noise. So it comes about that "rah-rahing" is a term of derision, especially in the larger colleges. Here is real progress. American student bodies used to seem curiously immature, compared with foreign students, but at last our college boys are growing up.

MATTER AND SPIRIT.

Science, which used to be so materialistic, grows spiritual-minded. A good example is Prof. Michael Pupin, famous American physicist, who has just died. In 1927 Prof. Pupin wrote a book entitled "New Reformation; From Physical to Spiritual Realities." Now, just before his death, he said in an interview:

Science gives us plenty of ground for intelligent hope that our physical life is only a stage in the existence of the soul. The law of continuity and the general scientific view of the universe tend to strengthen our belief that the soul goes on existing and developing after death.

The soul of man is the highest product of God's creative handiwork. Now, after God has spent untold time in creating man and endowing him with a soul, which is the reflection of his image, it is reasonable to suppose that man lives on earth for a brief span and then is extinguished by death? That it existed in vain?

Many other scientists today, while working with matter and material things, see God in everything, working through everything, and picture a living, growing, intelligent world.

THYROID JUICE.

In going through the hospitals, Dr. Charles W. Mayo, the Mayo Clinic, noted for many years the differences in the reactions of persons in similar operations, some being excited and requiring special effort in preparation and after-care; others going through simply, with little reaction and with only a slight rise in temperature on the first or second day.

This is due in a great many cases to the amount of juice being made by the thyroid gland in the neck. If too much is being made the individual is excitable and if not enough, too calm and placid.

In persons with not enough thyroid juice the body processes work too slowly—as much as 40 per cent below normal. In extreme cases with too much juice (exophthalmic goitre) the rate may be 100 per cent above normal.

"Some people are accustomed to getting along with their body processes working at a slow rate. They are frequently slow in action or reaction, and slow in speech unless stimulated. They are watching the radiators in their homes, likely to wear shawls or sweaters, and can tell if someone has left a door or window open."

Dr. Mayo pictures the body as a working machine manufacturing its own heat and power. It burns carbon and the heat or intensity of the fire depends upon the action of the juice of the thyroid gland. "The thyroid is like the draft of a stove; in overactivity of the thyroid gland it is wide open, and in underactivity it is nearly closed. If the draft can be opened, sugar is burned, heat is maintained and the mind becomes active; life again becomes full of interest."

Thus, sluggish individuals and many who are overweight due to lack of thyroid juice, can be brought up to normal quickly and kept there by the use of the proper dose of thyroid extract daily. The size of the dose depends upon the extent or degree below normal at which their body processes are working.

You may remember that in cases of overweight where reducing the food intake and increasing the exercise does not take off much weight, thyroid extract, given under the supervision of a physician, often brings about a satisfactory reduction of weight in a safe manner.

Parent-Teacher Associations

The March meeting of the Mt. Marion Parent-Teacher Association was held in the school house on Tuesday evening, March 12. After the routine business was considered, the speaker of the evening was introduced. Mr. Dumm, principal of Kingston High School, gave a most interesting talk on character building and character education. He stressed the great influence of home training and urged the need of better adult examples. Mr. Dumm's talk was greatly enjoyed and his visit appreciated by the people of Mt. Marion. A social hour and refreshments brought to a close a most profitable evening.

GREAT RICHES

by Michael House Farmham

SYNOPSIS: James Leslie, 17, just had his first love affair, and began a new career in the office of his dead grandfather's partner, Judge Holcomb. The judge predicts great things for James, and the numerous family friends, especially the women, meanwhile start out to find James an appropriate wife. They find the rich Jane Northrup—but James drops Jane for Leslie Harris, daughter of a printer who sometimes drinks too much.

Chapter 14 ABOUT LESLIE

IN New Concord there was a rumor current, but never confirmed, that John Harris, the father of Leslie, was the black sheep of a good family cast off on account of his intemperate habits.

It was certain that he had an education of sorts, for when he was very drunk he was fond of quoting the classics and on the rare occasions when he was persuaded to put on his shabby Prince Albert and accompany his wife to church he had, as everyone conceded, quite the air of a gentleman.

He was never known, however, to speak of his family or antecedents and it was believed that his wife knew as little about them as anyone else. Mrs. Harris always referred to her husband as "Mr. Harris" even in the bosom of her family and she regarded him with enormous respect, in spite of the fact that he drank up so much of his income that she was forced to take in sewing in order to make ends meet.

She was a patient, tired little woman, the daughter of a small grocer, and no one ever heard her complain, either of her husband or of her hard, dreary life.

John Harris had boarded at her mother's when he first came to New Concord and Mrs. Harris was never quite certain how they came to be married. John had suggested it in an expansive moment and some way it never occurred to her to say no.

At that time Mr. Harris was not a printer but a reporter. He had drifted into New Concord one winter's morning and asked for work at the office of the Daily Globe. As there was apparently nothing about a newspaper office which he could not do, they gave him a job in the composing room. Later he told the editor very casually that he had once been a reporter on the New York Sun, but afterward denied making any such statement. However, in an emergency he was "tried out" as a reporter and held this position for two years, at times with brilliant success.

Naturally Mr. and Mrs. Harris had never been received in New Concord's inner social circle, but Leslie, their only child, had been admitted from her school days. There wasn't much to Leslie, as everyone agreed; she was just a sweet little thing, though young and old liked her.

In fact, no one could help liking Leslie; she was that sort. Perhaps it was because she seldom offended anyone, hadn't enough "gumption," as Miss Julia said. And then she was naturally such a happy little person, happy as a child is happy without thinking about it.

THE Harris family lived in a humble frame cottage very close to Miss Julia Pratt's. Miss Julia fronted on Elm Fifth street and the Harrises on North, but their back and side yards met and mingled in neighborly fashion. From her back window Miss Julia could see Leslie at work in the kitchen or shaking rugs on an upstairs porch or digging in her garden.

Leslie was a "master hand" with flowers and in the spring and summer and late into the autumn the Harris place was ablaze with color and fragrance. Partly, perhaps, because of her bright yellow hair Leslie reminded Miss Julia somewhat of her own daffodils swaying so happily in the spring breezes.

She seemed as careless and carefree as they—just a pretty delightful everyday garden flower that anyone might raise. In contrast Jane Northrup was a stately American beauty rose that had required the best of nurture and generations of breeding to bring to its full perfection.

"Leslie is a pleasant little body," said Miss Julia out loud to Booker (short for Booker T. Washington) her large black tom cat and constant companion. "And there's no denying she's prettier in a baby way, but she's not the wife for James."

Miss Julia sighed and reflected bitterly on the incomprehensible ways of men and of their deplorable penchant for doll baby types instead of practical sensible women of "character." Miss Julia did not think much of men. At least it could be said to James' favor that he was no worse than the rest of his sex.

James meantime was sitting in a

Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—The latest addition to the Huey Long "You will not come back in 1936" club in the senate, is about the last man in that body one would think had the qualifications for membership.

His name is Josiah William Bailey of North Carolina, staid, serious one-time editor of a publication known as the Biblical Recorder.

Until the "kingfish's" most recent violent renewal of his feud with Joe Robinson, democratic leader of the senate, it had been believed generally that Long and Bailey were getting along quite nicely, both personally and politically.

As a matter of fact, Huey has been rather proud of a letter in his files from Bailey, described by him as a "nice letter," in which the "kingfish" says "he told me what a nice man I was and how I had been done such great injustice."

But the senator who once told Long what a "nice man" he was, and who, in return, has been completely mented by Huey, now enjoys the distinction of being in the "kingfish's" select "dog house."

He is in distinguished company, however. With him are Robinson and the tall, sharp-tongued Pat Harrison of Mississippi—both of whom have been warned by Long that they will have him to contend with in their bids for reelection to the senate in 1936.

While Huey has not actually threatened to invade North Carolina in 1936 to help defeat Bailey, he has said on the floor of the senate, "I will bet he does not go back to the United States senate next year. I just make the prophecy you will not be reelected."

Long's wager and prophecy came after Bailey had declared he was "utterly unwilling to take Long's word" for anything.

He Almost Snarled

HE DID, however, almost snarl at the North Carolina senator during their brief set-to on the floor when the declared:

"I let every man take his own stand. Whenever you want to be an enemy of mine, that is an easy thing to do. I'll reciprocate it right off the bat. If you want to be a friend of mine, I'll go double the way. It is no trouble to have me either for friend or enemy."

Tips on CONTRA

Take Your Ace.

By TOM O'NEIL

There comes from Henry Epoch, master of Bridge House, New York, an instance of his failure to set a slam contract, because he did NOT lead an ace.

In Henry's defense it may be said that a novice certainly would have led the ace, but that a player of ability would have hesitated because of the possibility that the ace would be ruffed and a queen set up for a discard. Henry insisted that he should have counted and deduced better.

I don't think the success of the slam was due so much to failure by Henry as ingenuity on the part of the declarer, who at his own request is nameless. Evidently he is one of those fellows who thinks that publicly detracts from his luck. There are stock speculators in that category.

Here was the hand:

NORTH		EAST
♠	AK752	♠	A107
♥	AQ93	♥	QJ3
♦	K104	♦	Q74
♣	AKQJ96543	♣	AKJ6

South contracted for six spades after hearts, more hearts and diamonds had been bid by North.

How, in the name of Hoyle, you may ask, can the declarer avoid losing tricks to the ace of trumps and the ace of clubs? Well, a heart was opened, and the declarer made the most of a slim chance to pull a double squeeze.

On North's king of hearts, South discarded the six of clubs and on the ace of hearts he threw the KING of clubs, no less. That's the key play.

A low heart, led from the North hand, was trumped South. East discarded the club nine, since a ruff would be futile. South then led the kind of shades, which went to East's ace.

Would you, if East, now lead the ace of clubs? Remember that South has discarded the king and a low one. Would the queen of clubs in the North hand afford a discard of a possible losing diamond, South? Henry thought he would play safe. He returned a spade. The declarer, however, was on the way to success.

He played out all the spades. The club jack in his own hand was a menace over East's club ace. He kept a heart in the North hand as a menace over West's higher hearts. Both West and East had to try to protect diamonds, besides each had a low suit. With one spade to play the situation was:

NORTH		EAST
♠	None	♠	None
♥	8	♥	None
♦	A K 3	♦	A Q 7 4
♣	None	♣	None

SOUTH		WEST
♠	5	♠	None
♥	None	♥	None
♦	10 9	♦	None
♣	3	♣	None

On the lead of the spade four West had to give up the high heart or untrump diamonds. East had to shed the club ace or untrump diamonds. The way the hand was played the last three tricks were taken with North's diamonds.

Entered Last Day.

Honolulu, Hawaii.—Hawaiians like their last day (May 1) celebration as well that Mayor C. Fred Wright has decided to extend the holiday for two extra days, making the festive period continue through May 1, 2 and 3. Last Day was first celebrated in 1928, and has been observed with increasing enthusiasm every year since that date. It is a time set aside for special observance of the old Hawaiian custom of weaving and wearing flower garlands.

Talks to parents

In Spite Of Obstacles

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
In this day and age of child psychology there is a tendency to lay the blame for a child's shortcomings everywhere but on the child itself. At the critical moment the conscientious parent is unable to act with vigor because he suddenly remembers some unfortunate episode in the past or a strain of heredity which has marked the child and made his behavior inevitable.

No doubt we are all influenced by our heredity and environment, but half the great men of history would not be remembered today if the circumstances of their youth had had the evil results which might have been expected.

Abraham Lincoln was probably one of the best examples of a triumph over all the hardships with which youth can cope. But it never occurred to him nor was it suggested to him that he could supinely yield to adverse circumstances and lay the blame for failure at the door of his ancestors and his childhood.

Modern psychology has a tendency to treat children as a different species from the ordinary run of mankind. To make the break between youth and maturity so sharp. They would like to guard and protect the young against not only the extraordinary but also against the common hardships and evils of mankind, and in their effort to do so, tend to make it soft and self-conscious and full of resentment against life.

But life is continuous from birth to death, and no matter how we long to guard and protect our children, they may at any moment be called upon to face sorrows and difficulties for which they must be prepared. Ambition, energy, a joy for the struggle of life, a willingness as well as a capacity to meet situations, however difficult, are far better gifts to the young than safety.

Following Jelly Bear

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER
"We wouldn't hurt you for anything," said Jelly Bear to Sweet Face, the lamb. "We were so busy thinking of food and of our joy in seeing our friends once again that we forgot to tell you, when we saw you at the cave, that we were friendly."

"But bears sometimes—" began the lamb in a timid voice.

"No doubt, grizzly bears are a bit in need of eating food at times and will go after cattle, and once in a while a black bear may think a breakfast or dinner of pig wouldn't be so bad, but you needn't worry about us.

"We're fonder of sweet food than anything. You have a sweet face and that is your name, but you wouldn't be sweet the way jelly is sweet," said Jelly Bear.

"Or the way honey is sweet," laughingly added Honey Bear.

"They're only teasing you," cawed Christopher Columbus Crow. "After a while, Jelly Bear got up and said he thought he needed some exercise, and the other bears decided they would walk too."

"I know," said Willy Nilly. "To be going to walk and get hungry again and stop and find some roots and acorns, and sap from trees, and you'll get strong and fat and handsome once more."

"That's the idea," said Jelly Bear. And, as he walked out of the cave, who should follow after him but Sweet Face, the lamb.

"I love a big strong leader," bleated Sweet Face, and where Jelly Bear wandered he was followed by the lamb.

Tomorrow—The Joy Bunk

A bill introduced in the legislature of the territory of Alaska proposed a fine of from $250 to $750 or a year in federal jail upon any public official who employed or used for the employment of any relative.

CAPITAL NEWS

HOLLISTER STURGES, Jr.

Albany, March 19 (Special)—In keeping with a custom of the past, legislative calendars last night were printed in green ink as a token to St. Patrick's Day. Not a bad color scheme; a darn sight better than having to print potential laws, especially ones with appropriations, in the red.

Gavel (Again)

"I move to a point of high personal privilege, Mr. Speaker," declared Oswald D. Heck, Schenectady Republican, at the opening of last night's session in the Assembly. Given the floor, Mr. Heck proceeded to recall the events of Mr. Steingut and his gavel of the past week when the head twice flew off and barely escaped hitting close-by heads. He explained that the clerk and newspaper men were in danger of being struck, and that he did not want to see the clerk hurt. Muffled laughter. Then Heck presented the Speaker with a handsome hatchet and the words that such an instrument must have been already used in the Rules Committee, powerful body of the Assembly and of which the Speaker is chairman. Jacob H. Livingston, Manhattan Democrat, presented the Speaker with a miniature gavel, decorated with a green ribbon. Mr. Steingut smiled at the color scheme. Many laughs on both occasions.

Good Speech

William T. Byrne, the oratorical Albany Democratic senator, wanted to put through a measure last night which would make possible the use of a petition to amend the state constitution. It would require about half a million signatures and then whatever these names were attached to would be an amendment. Acting as the spearhead to wound such a proposition, Senator Benjamin J. Feinberg, of Plattsburg, a Republican, lit out and so denounced this kind of legislation that he won enough Democratic supporters to oppose the measure so that it was finally defeated by a 20-17 count. Said he, "The organic law of the state must be guarded. It is an assault on the constitution, and bad government." He illustrated his point by the Townsend Plan that has been proposed in Washington, and showed how relatively a simple thing it would be to secure the required number of names to put through a thing of this kind. "I could have 5,000 votes right here in Albany by tomorrow night to have State Street moved south 100 feet," he added for good measure.

"Meddling by labor representatives must stop," the chief said.

TELLS HOW NU-ERB ENDED RHEUMATISM

Read here the interesting experience of Mr. M. L. Anderson, 37 Pershing avenue, Jamestown, N. Y., a well known employee of Art Metal Company.

"My main trouble was rheumatism in my right leg. It extended right down from my hip and at times was so sore and painful that it was difficult for me to walk. My stomach gave me a lot of trouble with gas and indigestion. My system was sluggish. I didn't feel right at all and was worried about this rheumatic trouble.

"I had a lot of friends using Nu-Erb and after seeing what it was doing for them I decided to try it.

"After taking it a few weeks I am fully convinced what a good medicine this is for the system. It has brought wonderful relief to the aches and pains so that they are scarcely noticeable. My stomach is better and there is a world of difference in the way I feel. Where I felt sluggish and had no ambition before I now have regained my strength and energy. I believe Nu-Erb will help anyone who has troubles like mine and I know a number of people who are better since using it."

Nu-Erb is being introduced in Kingston by McBride Drug Stores. —Adv.

Romance comes to the girl who guards against COSMETIC SKIN

Ford Freight Movement Sets Record

TWENTY-TWO locomotives are now required to handle the movement of freight through the great Rouge plant yards of the Ford Motor Company in Dearborn, Mich. The photo shows one of the Ford switch engines moving into the plant with its cargo. Situated in the background are the stacks of the Ford power house. Freight movement through the plant yards in February exceeded 30,000 cars, a new all-time record. In order to handle this increased traffic the Ford company was forced to rent ten additional locomotives.

The World

Automobile officials face a problem today that is quite different from what they have become accustomed to during the last few years. Every answer to the question "How's business?" brought a pause and, if answered at all, a flock of figures that carried minus signs as a prefix. H. J. Klinger, president of Pontiac Motor Company, has a new kind of trouble today. "Happy trouble," that needs no crying towels. His problem is to supply cars to keep up with orders, and so it is "happy trouble." With the introduction of two new sizes to its line of eight this year, Pontiac salesmen have become order blank clerks. There is no telling how many Pontiacs could have been delivered so far this year if Mr. Klinger and his staff had known what an avalanche of buying they were going to be up against. Anyway, in January deliveries were 7390 against 2584 in the same month last year. February's figures are more than 10,732 which is higher than the best month last year, and Mr. Klinger expects to have at least 120,000 new Pontiacs on the road, and perhaps 150,000, by the end of the year.

Shipments of Nash and LaFayette motor cars during January and February of this year showed an increase of 152.5 per cent over the same period in 1934, according to a statement released here today by C. H. Bliss, vice president and director of sales of the Nash Motors Company.

Beauty of exterior appearance and quality of interior appointments have never been more evident in any car yet built by Chevrolet than in the new 1935 Master De Luxe models. Credit for the greater part of this emphasis on appearance and beauty is ascribed to woman's increasing influence in making the selection of the automobile, according to William E. Holler, general sales manager of Chevrolet Motor Company. "The mechanical perfection of the automobile gave women the confidence in their ability to drive and drive well," said Mr. Holler. "Mechanical features are no longer a mystery to the majority of female motorists. But whether or not mechanical features are a more potent factor in selling the ladies, remains in doubt.

Municipal Court in Ohio Now "Pays Its Own Way"

Mansfield, Ohio.—When Mansfield's municipal court was established here in 1923, jurists and laymen questioned whether it would be able to pay its own way. Now, all doubt as to the answer has been dispelled. Judge R. E. Hutchinson, who has occupied the municipal bench since the court was created, said that receipts for the last seven years have totaled $208,540, as compared with expenses of only $83,597, for the same period.

Pewter Utensils Graced

Homes of Early England Pewter—a mixture of fine tin with copper or lead and antimony—though its origin goes back as far as the Twelfth century, did not come into daily household use, even among the very rich, until after the Restoration. Then it journeyed from the pewterer's workshop through the castle gate, into the state banquet hall of English castles, eventually into the lesser dining rooms, from there to the servants' quarters, and so on to the kitchen and out by the back door.

Its use was introduced to this country in the Eighteenth century, at a time when the average wealth of England first permitted its substitution for wood in the houses of the moderately situated. After that time, for the better part of a hundred years, all English homes more or less ate from pewter, drank out of it and used it for half the adjuncts and utensils of ordinary living.

The very early Americans used woodware. But thrifty housewives would pinch pennies so that eventually they might buy a pewter spoon, possibly even a pewter spoon. To see the dresser shelves garnished with rows of gleaming pewter bowls and platters was the dream of every woman. Realization of it established her social position securely.

The collector of American pewter will make his most gratifying finds among pieces dating from the period between 1750 and 1825. They may include dinner plates, chargers, tankards, mugs, spoons, beakers and friendly, oddly-shaped porringers.—London Mail.

Britain Held Colorful

Ship Christening Rites The launching of a giant liner at Glasgow recalls that the christening of a ship did not always follow the simple modern ritual. In Tudor times, the christening of a vessel of the royal navy was performed by an official known as the king's lieutenant. After the ship had taken to the water, on the quarterdeck a pedestal was erected and on this was placed a silver goblet full of wine.

The lieutenant went on board to an accompaniment of drum and trumpet music, marched up to the goblet and took a deep draught of the wine. Then he poured some of it on the deck at the four points of the compass, and, having again helped himself to the contents of the goblet, he threw it and what was left of the wine into the water as an offering to Neptune.

This practice was discontinued when it was discovered that certain of the king's lieutenants, with an eye to their own enrichment, stretched a net under the water alongside the ship and snared the goblet, which they afterwards sold.

Submarine Tank Nears Completion in Spain

Carrizosa, Spain.—A submarine tank, invented by a naval diver, was nearing completion at a local submarine building yard.

The tank is for use on the ocean bottom in depths around 300 to 1,000 feet. Its first use will be to explore the underwater terrain in the Strait of Gibraltar, to sound out possibilities for a tunnel connecting Europe with Africa.

The craft is expected to be ready for trials this spring. Intended to operate just as soon as a land tank over rough terrain, the machine will be steered by compass and is expected to be able to remain under water for about six hours, proceeding at the rate of a mile or two an hour. There will be a powerful searchlight, and the diver will be in communication by telephone with the surface.

The tank is to weigh from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds, and carry ballast so that it will not be impeded by strong currents.

PATTERN 5274

Before you know it, Easter will be here. If you want to look your best on that day, let these crocheted accessories be part of your ensemble. This crocheted hat is most becoming—it is softly draped and is that comfortable type of hat that goes with so many things. The purse—a nice, roomy one—is crocheted in a puff effect that looks much like quilting. The purse is very smart and could be made in darker colors for the Spring suit and in light shades for summer. And we all know how vital a part of our costume the summer purse is!

In pattern 5274 you will find complete instructions for making the set shown; an illustration of it and of the stitches needed; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to the Kingston Daily Freeman Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y.

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1616-B

Misses Graduation or Party Dress

Frocks for the Sweet Girl Graduate are all we want them to be this year. Ruffled, ribbon-trimmed and flower bodiced they will lead their way onto the platform silently acclaiming the highly feminized styling of a more romantic day.

The accompanying model is created in a crisp transparent organdy with trimming of one inch ribbon outlining the stitched on edges of all the ruffles, and used in the narrow bow sash. Naive bouquets of small flowers are a French detail of the Summer mode. Here a white one is nestling high on the shoulder with only its shiny green leaves for contrast.

The construction of it is ridiculously simple. The back is treated precisely like the front save for the cowl neckline in the front. The winged ruffles on the bodice are applied to the two-piece waist. The skirt is in two gores with three shaped ruffles trimming the bottom.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1616-B is designed in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 28, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 15 (24) requires about 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material; about 8 yards of 1 inch ribbon; none-gay.

Tomorrow: Stunning one-piece sports frock.

Knights of Columbus To Increase Council

Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, Sunday afternoon at the council rooms, launched a program for the mobilization for Catholic action. This "kick-off" meeting which was attended by 100 committee workers, marked the start of an intensive two weeks' drive to further strengthen the manpower of the order. Similar meetings were held yesterday throughout the United States and Canada.

Andrew J. Cook was the principal speaker at the meeting, and very ably and concisely explained the purposes of Catholic action. Other speakers included Robert A. Donnanumma, Charles J. Sparboro, William B. Byrne and Patrick T. Murphy. Mr. Murphy as chairman of the Hudson valley area, presided.

The Catholic Action movement fostered by the Knights of Columbus has the active support of the hierarchy and the reverend clergy. Distinguished Catholic laymen in all walks of life have raised their voice in behalf of the movement. Nationally known welfare leaders, non-Catholic as well as Catholic, have publicly praised the Knights of Columbus as a force for social progress. The press, secular as well as Catholic, has given unstinted cooperation and encouragement.

Within the next two weeks hundreds of eligible Catholic men will be contacted by committee workers, and invited to join the order. As was explained at the meeting, this drive will be the most selective ever attempted by any organization to increase its membership.

Throughout the entire country volunteer workers will set out these two weeks in an effort to gain 50,000 new members. There will be a regular meeting of Kingston Council tonight at 7:45. At this meeting Chairman William B. Byrne has requested that all team captains and workers be present to receive final instructions and to procure the necessary workers' kits that have been received from the New York office.

STONE RIDGE

Those who went were Ruth Van Demark, Robert Haum, Janet Servien, Margaret Oakley, Doris Pine, Dorothy North, Virgil Wagar, George Silkworth, Edward Beatty and Zella Sahler. The schoolhouse was beautifully decorated with green crepe paper. The party began by singing several snappy songs including a St. Patrick's day song. The vice president of the Cottekill school club very graciously welcomed the Rosendale and Stone Ridge schools. While some played basketball others enjoyed dancing by radio music. ### FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

(By The Associated Press)

Ugh! Bad Medicine

Honedale, Pa.—A license is a license to Wolf Sopachy, 70-year-old Indian chief, be it for fishing, hunting or practicing medicine.

Since William Penn made a treaty exempting Indians from payment of license fees to hunt and fish, Sopachy declared in court, the treaty should hold for medicine, too. Judge A. E. Swoyer had a different idea. It called for six months in jail and a $1 fine.

"Sissy" No Longer

Chicago—Maurice Chevalier says he is through with "sissy" roles. Stopping off enroute to Cannes, France, he said he intended to sun himself there until a moving picture producer decided to give him "the kind of a part I want."

He said the producers had wanted him to "laugh, kid and play all the time," while he wanted to "do something different."

One Out of 1,500

New York—Mehemed Hussein, waving his arms, shouted and ran back and forth. Mama Hussein, holding a baby in her arms, screamed. Abe, their 5-year-old, yelled at the top of his lungs. All this was at the heart of Broadway. A crowd of 1,500 persons gathered. But only one man did anything about it, and he was a machinist. He got Abe's hand out of a pipe.

In-and-Out

New York—Magistrate Sabatino, dismissing a police case defendant, rebuked police for making arrests on insufficient evidence. A man in the front row applauded.

"Remove that man," ordered the court. Police did and the judge called the next case: "Charles Scott. Charles Scott."

Scott did not answer and attendants, paging him in the hall, brought in the ousted man.

"Case dismissed," said the court, sharply.

Scott walked out again.

Pretty "Soft"

Chicago—From now on life is going to be pretty soft for the birds in the Lincoln Park Zoo.

They won't have to get up early any more to catch their worms. An "insectorium" which looks something like a chiffonier was established for them. In this the zoo will raise worms for the birds, and there'll be two to four for each.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS &amp; SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Grace Moore did not win a golden "Oscar" from the Academy, but she certainly has started something on the screen.

Operatic Songbird Marion Talley has slipped into town, signed an M. G. M. contract, and slipped out again, almost before anyone knew she was here. But she will return in May to make her camera boy.

Lily Pons, the French soprano, will be here for R. K. O. about the same time, and Lawrence Tibbett is due in for Twentieth Century. Fox has Tito Guizar, Mexican opera singer, and Tutta Rolle, from the Scandinavian vocal stage, while Nino Martini, young Italian tenor, will perform in Jesse Lasky films for the same organization.

Kiepara Also On Way

Jan Kiepara, whose "Be Mine Tonight" really introduced operatic selections to the screen two years before Grace Moore's picture, is coming in April to Paramount, which already has Mary Ellis, Miss Ellis, with a dramatic as well as operatic background, dislikes being classified as an opera singer, but she has the voice and the studio is using it. Miss Moore has begun her second film for Columbia, and it will be like "One Night of Love," a screen story with operatic music rather than an operatic film. Miss Ellis has appeared in two romances with music but a projected version of "Cavalleria Rusticana" for her has been postponed. Except for Miss Eggerth, the other singers have not been assigned vehicles as yet. But in every instance the possibilities for "screened opera" as such are regarded as slight. From opera the producers are willing and eager to take the arias—and to leave the librettos to the Metropolitan.

One Award Unsung

Inconspicuous among the Academy awards the other night was that for "scientific and technical achievement." Science and technical development lack the glamour of a Colbert or a Gable, and nobody paid much attention to the announcement. No achievement was deemed worthy of a first prize, but the second—a certificate of merit—went to the developers of the new type of "hill-and-dale" recording which was used in the Grace Moore picture.

In many respects this was the most important award made, as it is his process which gives the screen all value in voice recording. When Tibbett and Moore were making their early M. G. M. pictures, inaudible vocal values were "lost" in the inadequate recording of the time.

The new process represents great strides toward perfection—and an opportunity for all the new singers to give their best to the screen.

The greatest relief this nation could have would be relief from relief.

At The Theatres

Today

Broadway: "Folies Bergere." With a straw hat dancing number costing its producers $100,000 to screen and a cast of 120 picked chorus girls trained under Dave Gould, creator of the "Carioca," this United Artists release starring Maurice Chevalier and featuring Ann Southern and Merle Oberlin brings the Hollywood version of the famous French "Folies Bergere" to the Broadway for a limited engagement. In this swanky musical presentation, Maurice Chevalier rises once more to prominence in a dual role especially adapted to his dapper talent. Cast as a dancer in the "Folies Bergere" and also as a French nobleman, the plot revolves around the substitution of one man in the place of the other. Filled with spectacle, lively music and costly settings, the show is a ray, sparkling answer to those who believe the musical picture waning from monotony. Songs in the show include the remembered "Valentina" as well as the new hits "Au Revoir L'Amour," "Rhythm in the Rain" and two other solo numbers. The show was directed by Roy Del Ruth and others in the supporting cast include Eric Blore, Walter Byron, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Barbara Leonard and Robert Greig. Four star musical entertainment.

Orpheum: "The County Chairman" and "Calling All Cars." Will Rogers, the screen's greatest box office attraction according to latest reports, scores a complete triumph in the first feature, a story of county politics mixed with rare humor, romance and entertainment value. Mr. Rogers, as the cagey political boss, is in his very best element, and the work of Evelyn Venable, Kent Taylor, Stopin Fitch and Bertone Churchill is well done. "Calling All Cars" is the second attraction, a police thriller with Jack LaRue.

Kingsboro: "Good Fairy" and "Behind the Evidence." Margaret Sullivan, one of the really great actresses working before the camera at the present time, is given a comedy assignment after two rather sordid and bitter films, and she proves a capable and engaging player in this story of a Budapest orphan who starts out to learn about life, and who finds living good, bad, cruel, deceiving and indifferent in her quest to find the proper answer. Taken from the play of Ferenc Molnar, the scenario has to be re-written in parts for censorship purposes, but the directorial ability of William Wyler and the fine work of Frank Morgan, Cesar Romero, Reginald Owen and the able characterization of Herbert Marshall all combine to make this show above average entertainment. Produced at a cost of over $500,000, this latest vehicle for Miss Sullivan is the most ambitious work to come out of the Universal lot. It sparkles with good dialogue, humor, and excitement. "Behind the Evidence" is the second feature, with Norman Foster heading the roster of players.

Broadway: "Anne of Green Gables." Read by millions of people, the story of "Anne of Green Gables" becomes visual on the Broadway screen as it follows the novel carefully and faithfully through the sympathetic and human tale of an orphan girl who is adopted by an old couple, and her life as she grows into a beautiful woman. Done by RKO Radio Pictures, the same production company who created "Little Women" and "Little Minister," this motion picture is alive with beauty, pathos, humor and characterization. Lovely and charming, moving and stirring, it is family entertainment well worth seeing. Anne Shirley, O. P. Heggie, Tom Brown, Helen Westley, and Sara Haden are prominent in the cast. Added short features include a comedy with Chick Chandler and a color presentation called the "Little Dutch Mill."

Orpheum: "President Vanishes" and "That's Gratitude." What might happen to these United States were the President to suddenly disappear during some heart rending crisis is enacted in the first attraction, an action filled, patriotic motion picture that flares with moments of intense excitement only to change sometimes into a placid mountain brook. It warns of traitors within our own nation, and of men who play a nation for the chance for personal advantage. Walter Byron, Janet Beecher, Edward Arnold and Oswald Perkins are in the cast. "That's Gratitude" is a comedy of domestic misunderstanding with Frank Craven, Mary Carlisle, Charles Sabin and Helen Ware.

Kingsboro: "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head" and "Maybe It's Love." Claude Rains, who rose to motion picture stardom in a play in which his face was never seen (The Invisible Man) rises to rare greatness in the opening film, as distinguished a piece of work as has ever come to the screen. In it, Mr. Rains proves to be one of the really important actors of today, and the story is exceptional and different. In the role of a clever, intelligent past writer, Mr. Rains sells his mind to an unscrupulous publisher, who betrays his trust by selling out to the munitions industry. Mr. Rains, however, gets his revenge in a strange and effective manner. Gripping, vibrant, compelling, this movie is a combination of timely story, forceful acting and flawless direction. Joan Bennett and Lionel Atwill are also in the cast. "Maybe It's Love" offers Gloria Stuart, Ross Alexander, Henry Travers and Joseph Cawthorne in a story of young love that overcomes family friction, interfering relations and financial stagnation. There are plenty of laughs and some little truth in this one.

St. Remy Young People The Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society of the St. Remy Church cordially invites any youngster of 13 to 15 years of age to join with them. The society is a world wide association and has members in most all the countries. It enjoys many happy meetings and good times. ## FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

CLAUDE E. JACOB

New York, March 19 (AP).—The stock market regained a semblance of composure today under the impetus of recovery in commodities and a modification of tension in international politics.

While the gains in most cases were small, selling pressure subsided in a number of key stocks that unsettled the entire list yesterday, and renewed accumulation in selected stocks as well as short covering on a small scale enabled the market to hold a fairly steady course.

The market continued quiet and steady around mid-day.

Gains of around 1/2 were made by Lowry, Johns-Manville, and Otis Elevator, while American Crystal Sugar preferred secured a 4 point advance on a small turnover. American Telephone gained a full point but lost part of it in subsequent dealings.

Work Relief Art for Kingston High School Has Been Approved

Understood It Will Consist of Mural by Arnold Blanch and a Number of Paintings to be Hung on Corridor Walls—Art for City Hall May Not Materialize as Prices Are Said to be Too High—Auditorium Next on Program.

It was stated today that the art projects for the Kingston High School prepared by artists of Woodstock as a work relief project for the painting fraternity had been approved by the local committee which is composed of Anton Otto Fischer, nationally known illustrator, Edward Cokendall, and Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck. An effort was made to get in touch with these three men today but without success.

One of the members of the artists' committee in Woodstock, however, was gotten in touch with, and he stated that the art projects for the high school had been submitted and approved. Among the art objects for the high school is to be a mural by Arnold Blanch and a number of paintings to be hung on the walls of the corridors. The paintings are what is known in art circles as easel work.

It was also said that no progress had been made on the project of furnishing art objects for the city hall as the painters' prices are said to be too high, but the next work taken up will be the Municipal Auditorium.

Under this relief project for artists a committee of Woodstock artists named 24 Woodstock artists as eligible to take part in the project. These 24 artists were directed to furnish sketches and ideas to the artists' committee, who would make the selection of the best offered and submit those they selected to the local committee for their approval.

Under the plan adopted it is said that all 24 artists selected will be given work, some in assisting the other artists and the others to do individual work such as paintings.

The time allowed for this art project was three months and it expires in April. Whether the time will be extended or not is unknown.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, March 19.—On Friday the Woodstock members of Miss Peabody's adult educational group in Saugerties were called upon to lead the discussion on "Where do Adolescents Get Their Standards?"

Miss Peabody was ill and unable to attend so her place was taken by Dr. Andrus, who lectures several of the Woodstock group have heard before. Miss Florence Webster was in charge of leading the discussion which the Woodstock group found very stimulating even though they had already discussed the subject several times at the Woodstock Library.

Miss Webster found it interesting to compare the problems of leading a small group with those of a larger one such as was met with in Saugerties. After the meeting Dr. Andrus complimented the Woodstock leaders on what they had already done in so short a time in Woodstock and by their excellent control of the Saugerties discussion.

She especially commended their attitude on the subject. It was not, she said, one of condemnation of adolescent standards but merely what the topic stated. Dr. Andrus also explained that the group has been given an excellent rating among similar organizations.

Victor Schrader left late Monday evening for the State Forestry School in Vanakena. He was accepted late last fall for a class of 50 students from applicants all over the country. He is receiving an honorable discharge and very high recommendations from the CCC Camp in Boiceville. Several friends from Woodstock motored to Kingston Monday night to see him off on the train.

The party given for members of the minstrel show by the Lydian Society on Thursday was a great success, with approximately 50 people present. Several games were played, including contract and auction bridge, pinocchio and dominoes. After the games a number of acts from the show were repeated and a Virginia reel organized. After the games and entertainment refreshments were served, consisting of sandwiches, coffee and cake, made by members of the Lydian Society. Many of the guests agreed that it was the largest and most enjoyed social gatherings of church members held for some time and hoped that more such parties would be held in the future. As the guests departed they extended their thanks to the Lydian Society for a very pleasant evening.

Friday evening a surprise party was staged at the parsonage of the Dutch Reformed Church for Victor Schrader who left on Monday for the State Forestry School in Vanakena. The secrecy of the plans were responsible for the party being a complete surprise. At about 8 p. m. a crowd of young people gathered in front of the post-office and awaited the Rev. Harvey I. Todd who was to come by his car (conspicuously getting the car to take Mr. Todd to a movie while Victor stayed at home with Stephen Todd). When the crowd arrived on the porch, still unnoticed, they trooped on into the living room where Victor was hanging close on Victor's shoulders to prevent his seeing the gang's approach. After the excitement of the surprise was over, games were enjoyed by everyone and several prizes were offered. Hot chocolate, potato salad and cake were supplied as refreshments by Mrs. Todd, one cake made by her self and one by Doris Block. Among those present were Edith Longenecker, Ruth, Alice and Milton Hunsat, Doris and Norman Dock, Dolores and Bill Allen, Betty Thompson, Gus Schrader, Allen Mower, Walter Dwyer, Mary Adeline Summers, Harry Bentley and Jane Germaine.

The Thursday round-table discussion at the library last week was the second one on "Adaptation and Adjustments." The next two will be on "Hereditary and Environment."

AT END OF STRATOSPHERE HOP

"I'm too deaf from the roar of the motor to talk," Wiley Post told
Maj. John Berry, Cleveland Airport superintendent, just after the noted flier landed at the Ohio city. Post, attempting a record-breaking transcontinental flight through the stratosphere, was forced to land when it was discovered that his oxygen supply was dangerously low. Post (right) is shown with Major Berry at the Cleveland Airport. (Associated Press

This remarkable picture shows Wiley Post's "Winnie Mae" roaring skyward in a heavy fog as he began his second attempted stratosphere flight from Los Angeles to New York. The plane's landing gear, which he dropped to decrease wind resistance, can be seen as it bounced on the ground. (Associated Press Photo)Ulster Park Card Party.

POST'S STRATOSPHERE FLIGHT ENDS IN CLEVELAND

Wiley Post's second attempt to cross the continent from Los Angeles to New York ended in Cleveland, when a badly exhausted oxygen supply forced him to land. The noted aviator, who was attempting to set a new record crossing through the stratosphere, his plane, the Winnie Mae, is shown shortly after it had set to a stop at a Cleveland airport. The landing gear of the plane had been damaged as the flier took off from Los Angeles. (Associated Press Photo).Army Maneuvers on Large Scale PlannedWould Bring Regular Army and National Guard Forces Together for
15 Day Training Period in the Field.A plan is being formulated for summer and fall army maneuvers of large scale which will bring the regular army and the national guard forces together for a 15 day training
period instead of the usual summer
drills and encampments which have been customary. This plan is being drafted in the expectation that Congress will approve a provision of such a program included in the pending war department appropriation bill. If this is done one of the big maneuvers probably will be centered at Pine Camp, N. Y., with some 60,000 men engaged.Pine Camp has been the training quarters for the local artillery outfits for several years. The plans now under consideration would bring together the regular army and national guard forces of the First, Second and Third Corps Areas, with
headquarters at Boston, Governors
Island and Baltimore, respectively.
The big concentration of troops at Pine Camp will depend upon the appropriation of Congress of necessary funds for the transportation of the soldiers and guardsmen from their states for the concentration.If this plan is carried out the maneuvers probably would be held in August with all of the state organizations affected using this period for their summer training instead of the usual annual summer encampments. Similar maneuvers are being planned in various parts of the country if the money is provided by Congress."Italian" Day at tee of Kingston Rotary, under the

ture of the Rotary Club meeting next Wednesday, March 20. This special program is expected to be one of the best ever sponsored by the local service club, and members and guests
of Kingston Kiwanis have been invited to attend.The Italian government will be represented by Vice Consul Don
Guido Colonna, and John De Gasperi,
president of the Italian-American
Club, is expected to attend along with other representative Italian-
Americans residing in this vicinity.The main speaker will be Colonel

War." The Colonel has chosen this topic for his discourse.

Adolescents Sent Home

Brooklyn, N. Y., March 18 (AP).—
Came the dawn, and the crime prevention bureau had practically cornered the market in sailors' sweethearts. A squad of detectives went through the bars and cabarets
of the Navy Yard district in the early hours today gathering up girls
under 21 and sending them home
to their parents. Altogether 69
were picked up. The dozen or so who had come to New York from Connecticut, New Jersey and Massachusetts were put on trains and sent back to their parents. Local mothers were warned to see that their daughters kept off the streets at night. The drive was conducted under the law giving the crime prevention bureau police powers over adolescents and is part of the bureau's comprehensive effort to keep young people as much out of trouble
as possible.

Rondout Lodge Honors James Tongue, Oldest Member of Fraternity

He Was Raised a Master Mason in 1867—Rondout Masonry Celebrated His 68th Anniversary with Celebration in Lodge Rooms Monday—Medal Presented Him By Roger H. Loughran, District Deputy Grand Master—Brief Sketch of His Life.

It was James Tongue Night on Monday evening when Rondout Lodge, No. 343, Free and Accepted Masons, paid tribute to its oldest living member with a celebration in Mr. Tongue's honor on the 68th anniversary of his being raised a Master Mason in the lodge in 1867, just 13 years after Rondout Lodge was instituted in 1854. While there have been a number of men who have been Master Masons for half a century, few there are who can look back on a life of Masonic activity of nearly 70 years.

The reception tendered Mr. Tongue on Monday evening will long be remembered by those in attendance. As the oldest living member of the lodge entered the lodge rooms accompanied by his son, Alfred W. Tongue, a past master of the lodge, he was greeted with hearty applause. The son, speaking in behalf of the father, said that his father desired to express his gratitude to the lodge for helping him commemorate his 68th Masonic birthday.

It was in this same lodge room, said Mr. Tongue, that in 1867 his father was raised a Master Mason. Sixty-eight years is a long time. In those early days, just two years after the close of the Civil War, this lodge room was lighted with kerosene lamps and heated by big sheet metal stoves. There were no electric lights, no telephones, no central heating systems or the many other conveniences we enjoy today, but there is one thing that has not changed and that is Masonic principles and reverence of God.

Dr. Samuel Stern, a former grand lodge officer, and past master of Rondout Lodge, extended the greetings of the lodge to Mr. Tongue on this, his Masonic anniversary, and said that the lodge was proud to join with him in commemorating this event. On behalf of the lodge, Dr. Stern presented Mr. Tongue with a comfortable lounge chair, richly upholstered in leather, as a slight token of the esteem in which he was held by his brother Masons.

The tribute to the guest of honor was delivered by the Rev. Clarence E. Brown, pastor of the Wurts Street Baptist Church, of which Mr. Tongue for years has been an active member. The Rev. Mr. Brown said that when he had been asked as the pastor of Mr. Tongue to deliver the tribute that at first he had hesitated, and then had decided to accept the invitation extended. He called attention to the fact that for a number of years Mr. Tongue had held the highest honor that a layman could hold in the church, the office of senior deacon. The guest of the evening, said Mr. Brown, was a modest man, a man who in his everyday life exemplified the principles of Masonry. He was a man who though he had been a member of the lodge for nearly 70 years, had never sought office. All that he desired was to be just a good Mason and that he had been.

Mr. Tongue was then presented with the grand lodge medal by Roger H. Loughran, district deputy grand master of the Greene-Ulster Masonic district. Mr. Loughran also paid a tribute to Mr. Tongue and called attention to the fact that the medal presented him was the first medal of its kind to be presented to a Mason in this Masonic district.

At the opening of the celebration, John F. Romulus, master of the lodge, said that an invitation had been extended to C. C. Ten Brock, the oldest living member of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, to attend the celebration that evening, but Mr. Ten Brock had declined the invitation as he had already accepted an invitation to attend the session of his own lodge the following evening, and owing to his age thought it would prove too much for him to be out both evenings.

A brief sketch of the oldest living member of Rondout Lodge and a resident of Kingston since 1851, was contained in a souvenir booklet containing also the program of the celebration which was distributed to the members of the lodge. Mr. Tongue was born in England on August 2, 1846, in the village of Brentwood, now a part of the city of London.

In 1851 the family moved to America, with Buffalo as their destination, but stopping in Kingston en route after a seven weeks' trip across the ocean in a sailing vessel, so attracted James Tongue, Sr., that this city became his permanent residence.

As a boy Mr. Tongue lived on the Kingston Point, which in those early days was separated from the mainland, so that it was necessary to use boats or step the stones at low tide, to get to the main land of Rondout. As a boy he attended school in the school which stood on the present site of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, and a site on Franklin street. He also attended school in the academy that stood on the site now occupied by St. Peter's Church on Wurts street.

It was during the year 1867 that Mr. Tongue was raised a Mason. He and Christian Schmidt were initiated, passed and raised together. The Finance committee resumes questioning of S. Clay Williams on NRA. Labor and munitions committee study labor relations and war profits bills.

House

Labor committee questions Francis Biddle on labor relations bill. Other committees continue hearings on anti-holding company and new bank legislation.

Cabinet Resigns.

Brussels, March 19 (AP)—The cabinet under Premier Georges Theunis resigned today. The resignation of the government came in the face of a heated internal controversy in Belgium over the advisability of the nation remaining on the gold standard, along with France, the Netherlands, and Switzerland. Colonel Theunis has been a strong advocate of holding the Belgians on gold. Shortly before his resignation, the premier categorically denied that Belgium had departed from gold.

Officers of the lodge that year were: Master, George W. Smith; senior warden, Joseph Tabb; junior warden, Archibald McMillan; senior deacon, George B. Hubbard; and junior deacon, A. Sherr.

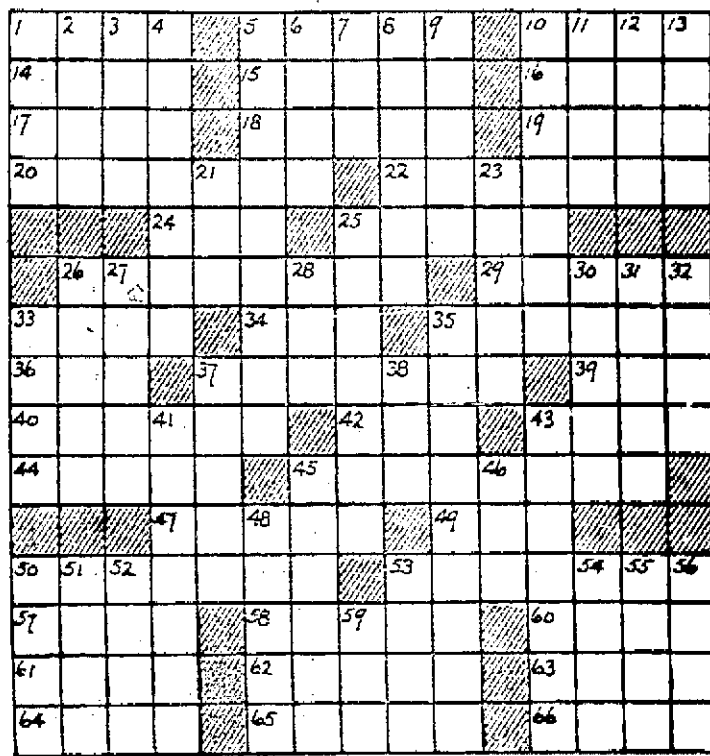

Mr. Tongue was always active in the work of the lodge through the years although he never held an office in it. For years he was engaged in the grocery business on lower Broadway, and later became vice president and later president of the Home Seekers' Cooperative Savings and Loan Association, and for a time was a director in the Rondout Savings Bank.

The present officers of the lodge are: Master, John F. Romulus; senior warden, Henry Milne; junior warden, Donald H. Schoonmaker; treasurer, John F. Rowland; secretary, F. H. Carey; chaplain, the Rev. Charles L. Palmer; senior deacon, W. Kenneth McKelvie; junior deacon, Stephen S. Brown; senior master of ceremonies, Carl Spitz; junior master of ceremonies, James Williams; marshal, Dr. Samuel Stern; and altar, George B. Hubbard.

Legionnaires Clash With Union City Reds On Wednesday Night

The Kingston Legionnaires will have the Union City Reds on their opponents tomorrow night at the Municipal Auditorium. This will be the second meeting of the two teams. The Union City boys won the initial game played earlier in the season. Wednesday night they expect to present even a stronger lineup than on that occasion. Paul Adamo and Willie Schill will lead the invaders. Benson will play the center position and George Anderson will be Adamo's running mate in the forward court. Anderson is a former N. Y. U. court star. Frankel will play in the guard position with Schill. Last Sunday night the Reds scored a spectacular win over the world famous Vets, 24-22.

In anticipation of a tough evening, Manager Pop Morganweck will have his boys in tip top shape. He announced that he will use his regular lineup of Kurtyka and Stanton in the forward berths, Jim Lennon at center and Charlie Husta and Frank Shimek in the back court.

Morganweck and Husta's home town, Egg Harbor, N. J., entertained the Legionnaires last evening and tonight they are in Atlantic City, playing in the Eastern League at Young's Million Dollar Pier.

Reserved seats for tomorrow's game are now on sale at the Legion Building, phone 1014. There will be dancing after the game.

Woodstock J. A. Boys Nose Out Trojans

Last evening at Woodstock the Artists turned in a hard fought win over the Kingston Trojans, 28-26. Trailing most of the time in the first half, the winners forced ahead on the whistle blow and enjoyed a 10-9 lead at the rest period. It was nip and tuck during the final periods but a basket by Hunter in the last minute saved the game.

Senior D Quintet Wins Class Title

Playing a brilliant game in the second half, the Senior D team won the High School Class Basketball League championship Monday afternoon in the High School gym by trouncing the Sophomore A End quintet by a score of 39-12.

After sweeping through the Class League schedule without a defeat, the Senior's found little opposition, after the first half, in defeating the Sophomores. The first half ended 6-4. After the rest period the Senior's come back and completely outclassed the under classmen in every phase of the game. The Sophomores were outscored 13-3 from scrimmage.

Stretch Leahy topped the scorers with four fields for eight markers. Joe Cavano and Mac Tiano each scored six points for the winners. Tom McManus was high for the losers with five points.

Don Toffel and Jim Geoghan, both members of the Senior D quintet, led the league scorers for the season with 118 points each.

In the preliminary yesterday afternoon the Senior E team clinched third place in the league by defeating the Sophomore B End team, 36-18. Fitzgerald and Benjamin led in the scoring with 12 and 10 points respectively. Bailey was high for the losers with nine points.

A call for football candidates for the spring practice was issued yesterday. Approximately 75 candidates turned out. Almost all of last year's eleven were present. Suits will be given out later in the week.

The Senior D quintet, winners of the class title, are scheduled to meet the Faculty in the school gym Wednesday afternoon. In a preliminary the Girls' Class championship will be decided.

Yanks Out 'To Win For Joe'

JOE MCCARTHY

Col. Ruppert was "satisfied" with Joe.

St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP)—It isn't, of course, an easy thing to say, but nevertheless it becomes daily more apparent that the New York Yankees may be definitely better off in several respects this season—with Babe Ruth out of the picture.

There isn't a spark of ungracious feeling expressed regarding the old Bammer, and no failure to appreciate what he meant to the club and to individuals on the club, but there has come an amazing upturn in Yankee hustle and spirit that cannot be ignored.

Probably the most notable element of this new spirit is the quiet but unmistakable determination of the players to "go out and win for Joe." One overhears that refrain in shower rooms, in the dining hall, almost always when groups of Yankees gather for a little earnest conversation.

A "McCarthy" Team: At Last?

The feeling seems to be that, for the first time since he took over the Yankee reins in 1931 after his success with the Chicago Cubs, the Yankees of this year will be a typically Joe McCarthy team.

Gone, for the most part, is the blasting power of the "Murderers' Row" which had distinguished Yankee teams since the Miller Huggins era. The passing of Ruth, to many, seems symbolic of this passing—although forsooth Lou Gehrig has really been the biggest gun for several seasons.

But to some of the players the passing of Ruth has more tangible meaning, namely removal of what they considered "embarrassment" for McCarthy, and clarification of the problem of protecting the borders of right field.

The very fact that McCarthy might be considered "on the spot" this season may provide the rallying motif for the Yankees. It has already served to pep up spring training work, and McCarthy's proved talents as a builder of hustling, efficient teams may find unusually willing material in the comparatively new crop of Yanks to whom pennants are by no means commonplace occurrences.

A Success With The Cubs

Col. Ruppert, the man who pays McCarthy's salary, obviously has plenty of confidence in Joe. That was evident last year when he re-

Johnston Is Biding His Time Before He Announces Fight Card

New York, March 19 (AP)—A lot of Madison Square Garden's astute promotional efforts have met with negative results during the indoor season, but Jimmy Johnston says he is just biding his time to announce a couple of "bell-ringing" propositions for the outdoor season.

The fact that Champion Barney Ross has agreed to defend his lightweight title against Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., and that Joe Louis, Detroit negro heavyweight sensation, has signed for three New York summer fights—all for a rival organization—has not outwardly perturbed Johnston.

Even when it became known that the 20th Century Sporting Club, which will sponsor the Ross-Ambers bout and Louis' fight, also plans a heavyweight title bout between Champion Max Baer and ex-Champion Max Schmeling, Johnston didn't lift an eyebrow.

"These other fellows sound off as loud and as often as they like," he said. "I've got until April 1 to lay my cards on the table before the New York State Athletic Commission."

Ross' agreement to meet the Herkimer Hurricane in a bout tentatively set for June 5, was a bitter pill for Johnston to swallow. He had offered Ross $30,000 for an indoor engagement and was turned down by the Chicagoan. On top of all this the 20th Century organization is reported to be lining up another Ross-Jimmy McLarnin welterweight scrap.

"Just let 'em try to promote a heavyweight championship fight," roared Johnston. "I've got Baer under contract for the defense of his title. I've also got Schmeling under contract."

One of the tricks Johnston is reported to have under his black derby is a new contract which will bind Baer to the Garden corporation in the event he wins. There's one thing fairly definite about it all, Baer's contract calls for a title bout in June. If the garden fails to promote a heavyweight championship show before the end of that month then the capricious champion is released from the bonds of the contract.

plied in a firm affirmative to Babe Ruth's question as to whether he was "satisfied" with McCarthy as manager.

McCarthy, never a big league ball player himself, came to the Yankees after one of the most consistently successful managerial careers in the modern history of the game. He won two pennants for Louisville in the American Association, then moved up to the Cubs in 1926 and, with a team made up pretty largely of Association graduates, won the pennant in 1929. His teams succeeded more because of their hustle and drive than through abundance of talent.

Then he came to the Yankees and fell heir to the tradition of bludgeoning power. He whipped the Yanks to win the 1932 pennant and the world series from the Cubs, but they haven't been conspicuous for their hustle since.

Until now.

Now they "gotta go out and win for Joe."

Up Off The Floor

IN HIS LAST TWO BOUTS HE STOPPED NEUSEL IN EIGHT ROUNDS...

...AND HAMAS IN NINE!

HIS HEART IS SET ON AVENGING THE KNOCK-OUT HE SUFFERED AT THE HANDS OF MAX BAER, THAT SWELTERING JUNE EVENING TWO YEARS AGO.

THEY'LL MEET AGAIN.

Don't They Come Back?

Then, too, Schmeling will have the advantage of two hard winning battles under his belt while the title holder has done nothing more than barter through a few exhibition bouts to keep his hand in.

When the two Maxes met the first time the situation was reversed. It was Baer who had been fighting regularly while Schmeling had idled.

If Baer climbs into the ring in the same condition he was in when he was himself out punching Carnera full of holes, he will find the plodding, punching German a real menace after a few pounds.

No former heavyweight champion ever had half the chance of regaining his crown Schmeling has.

With all the dogged determination characteristic of his race, Max Schmeling has picked himself off the floor and hammered his way back into the heavyweight championship picture after heartbreaking defeats by Max Baer and Steve Hammer.

The score with Hammer was evened. Schmeling stopped the former Penn State athlete by battering him into a helpless condition in side rounds before 23,000 cheering countrymen in Hamburg, Germany.

Max Baer's case comes under the heading of unfinished business, and Schmeling hopes to take care of that before the summer games.

All along André Hoffman, Baer's manager, has indicated that of the present crop of alleged contenders only Schmeling stood a ghost of a chance against the champion.

Pittsburgh's Title Hopes Rest On Chances Of Improved Mound Staff

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN (Associated Press Sports Writer)

San Bernardino, Calif., March 19 (AP)—Pittsburgh's Pirates will swing into the 1935 National League pennant race with a sturdy front line but questionable reserve strength.

With only four outfielders on the roster and a dearth of good right handed hitters, Manager Pie Traynor will launch the Buccaners on the rough championship voyage of the senior circuit forewarned that only the best of fortunes can take them to victory.

Pittsburgh's title hopes rest on the chances of an improved pitching staff and the chance that injuries will not make inroads on its weakest points.

"Our pitching," said Traynor, "the weakest link in the club last year, has improved to the point now where it promises to be the strongest."

The addition of Guy Bush, John Salveson, Jim Weaver and Cy Blanton, he believes, will more than offset the loss of Larry French, who went to Chicago Cubs, and Leon Chagnon, traded to the New York Giants. Bush, Weaver and Salveson were obtained from these two clubs in the deals, while Blanton was strikeout king of the International League, coming back to the Pirates late in the season.

Waite Hoyt, Bill Swift and Red Lucas fill out the regular mound corps with one other to be selected from a group of rookies toiling here for recognition.

Traynor is willing enough to admit that the preponderance of portside hitters has him worried.

To be sure, there is hitting strength there, for Paul Waner led the league last year with a .362 average; Floyd (Arky) Vaughan hit .333, Floyd (Babe) Herman had a .304 with Chicago, spending considerable time on the bench, and Lloyd Waner, leadoff man, hit .283 although he was ill during quite a spell.

The outfield will shape up with the Waner brothers and Herman seeing most of the action with only Forrest Jensen in reserve.

Under present plans the infield combination will remain undisturbed over 1934, with Traynor at third; Vaughan, short stop; Harry Lavagetto, a newcomer last year, second, and Gus Suhr, at first. Suhr also hits from the south side of the plate, leaving only Traynor, Lavagetto and Tommy Padden, first string catcher, as the starting right hand hitters along with the pitchers.

When Bob Grace comes up to backstop, another southpaw will be added to the list.

While the hitting strength is predominately left handed, only one of the pitchers is a portside. This is Ralph Birkhofer who won 11 games for the Pirates in 1934.

Tommy Thevenow, veteran of many a pennant campaign, is the chief infield reserve. A trio of rookies—George Trapp, James Browne and Wilbur Brubaker—are battling for the other utility spot.

Traynor realizes the task of making this array into a pennant winner is a tough one but he points out that stranger things than that have happened in the big leagues.

Latest News from The Baseball Front

(By The Associated Press)

Orlando, Fla.—Ken Strong's attempt at a baseball comeback with the Brooklyn Dodgers apparently has failed. Discouraged over his inability to throw, Strong, who trained with the Dodgers at his own expense, is on his way back to New York. The pro football star fractured his right wrist several years ago and never has been able to throw adequately since.

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Ben Chapman has done more experimenting with his batting style this spring than all the rest of the Yankees put together.

After trying to make himself into a switch hitter, batting right handed against southpaws and vice versa, Alabama Ben is worried about the way he holds his bat. He thinks holding his bat shoulder high instead of waist high as he did when he broke in has an unfavorable effect on his batting average.

West Palm Beach, Fla.—Carl Hubbell worked all spring on a new motion to first base.

Yesterday the southpaw star of the New York Giants used it for the first time in a game against the St. Louis Browns and had a balk called on him. "Looks like it won't work," Carl told Manager Bill Terry.

Training camp wits suggested Hubbell was wasting his time. "There's nobody on first base when he pitches anyway," one was remarked.

Fort Myers, Fla.—Starting the last week of their training camp stay, the Athletics took stock today and found they have fared well.

Of seven games with major league teams in the Grapefruit League series, Connie Mack's team has won four, defeating the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals twice, the New York Giants and the Boston Red Sox. The A's yesterday defeated St. Louis 5-7 in their second game.

Nation's Officials Expect Sizeable Drop in Relief Load in Month of April

Spring Farm and Construction Work Are Also Expected To Reduce Government Expenditures of 190 Millions a Month.

PEAK IS REACHED

Large Amount of Total Relief Costs Can Be Laid to Policy of Relief Standards.

Washington, March 19 (AP)—The peak of the nation's relief load appears to have been reached, officials said today, and April should see a sizeable drop in the more than 20,000,000 now receiving help.

The beginning of spring farm and construction work, Federal Emergency Relief Administration men said, will reduce the outlays that have been costing federal, state and local governments as high as $190,000,000 a month.

They expressed the hope private industry would also be able to absorb more workers. If this happens on a sufficient scale, it is contended, it will enable the government to spend less on the huge work relief program which President Roosevelt plans—Congress willing.

FERA's figures showed 4,603,000 families receiving relief in January. Although this represented an almost steady increase since last May, indications were there was a slight decline in February.

In December, 1934, the average monthly benefit for each family was $28.37 as compared with $26.39 in October, $24.10 in September, $18.22 in November, 1933, and $16.59 in May, 1933. Some allowances must be made, however, between the warm and cold month figures for heavier clothing, fuel, etc.

A large amount of the total increased relief costs, officials said, can be laid directly to this definite policy of raising the standards of relief, providing more adequate medical care, and larger grants to meet higher food and rent costs.

Within a short time after the creation of the FERA in May, 1933, special programs were started to improve, officials said, the standards and adequacy of relief and to aid special groups. These programs included transient care, education, emergency work, rural rehabilitation, drouth relief, distribution of surplus crops and submarginal land purchases.

Coincident with the close of the civil works program, on which the federal government expended $314,000,000 exclusive of relief funds, FERA began an emergency work program which now employs more than 2,200,000 persons. These workers are paid local prevailing wages for the particular type of work done, with the hours of work adjusted to meet family budgetary needs as estimated by case workers.

EAST WINDHAM MAN DIES IN FIRE THAT DESTROYS HOME.

Frank DuBois, 40 years old, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed his home Sunday night, and his body was found in the smoldering ruins Monday morning. DuBois, who lived alone in a house which was situated about 100 feet back of the road between Windham and East Windham, was last seen alive about midnight, when he was in a place at Hensonsville. It is not known what time the fire started. Eugene Butts of East Windham happened to glance in the direction of the DuBois home about 6 o'clock Monday morning and saw smoke. He went to the place and found the house had been burned to the ground.

Carl Duisberg Dies

Governor Hoffman Denies Statement

Trenton, N. J., March 19 (AP)—Governor Harold G. Hoffman said today he had made "no promises or commitments" in connection with the case of Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

"I have not discussed the Hauptmann case officially with any person," the governor said when he was asked to comment on the report Edward J. Kelly, chief defense counsel, had told his client he had "personal assurance from the governor of New Jersey" that Hauptmann's death sentence would be commuted if he confessed.

"I have made no promises or commitments, nor do I in connection with any case coming before the court of sessions," Hoffman asserted. He said that during his trial for the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby, said in Huntington, W. Va., last night he had heard Kelly tell the German carpenter he had "personal assurance" the governor would commute the sentence to life imprisonment "if he confessed."

"I am not making any statement, unless I am innocent," Low said Hauptmann replied.

Three Measures Form Bulwark of Bonus Talk

Washington, March 19 (AP)—Here are the bills which are the subject of most talk as the House of Representatives heads into the bonus debate.

Patman bill—Introduced by Rep. Patman (D., Texas). It would pay the $2,000,000,000 ex-soldiers' bonus immediately through the issuance of new currency, treasury notes.

Vinson-American Legion bill—Introduced by Rep. Vinson (D., Ky.); it also would pay the bonus immediately. It provides no particular method of raising the money, leaving that matter to the government.

Tydings-Cochran-Mc Reynolds compromise bill—Introduced in the Senate by Senator Tydings (D., Md.) and put forward in the House in similar form by other legislators. It would give the veterans negotiable bonds instead of cash. Roughly speaking, if a veteran held until 1945 the bonds he received for a $1,000 bonus certificate, he would be paid approximately $1,000 in cash. If he sold the bonds now he would get about $798.

Supreme Court Is Again Faced With The No Work Problem

No Cases In Which Attorneys Were Ready Monday When Court Convened Despite Long List on Calendar—Two Settlements Announced.

Despite the new rule recently adopted to prevent delays in supreme court and keep the court busy, Judge Russell found himself faced with the same old problem, no work to do. Although there were several cases on the day calendar and a long list on the alarm calendar there were no cases in which attorneys were ready Monday morning when court convened. At that time Judge Russell took an adjournment until 2 o'clock when again the court was faced with the no work problem. This break in court sustained Judge Russell's expression of his opinion that the new rule was brought to his attention. At that time he said the rule was good in theory but it did not work out in either Albany or in Troy where a similar rule was in effect.

When no business was ready Judge Russell adjourned court until 10 o'clock this morning. Jurors were excused until that time.

Two settlements were announced Monday. No. 274, General Exchange Insurance Corporation, etc., against John A. Schottler, an action for property damage arising out of alleged negligence was announced as settled by A. J. Cook who appeared for the defendant. No. 21, Mildred Macko, an infant by guardian, against Lina J. Von Soosten, an action to recover for dog bite, was announced settled. Flanagan & Kaercher for plaintiff and Robert G. Groves for defendant.

No. 117, Deyso Kardos against Otto Sturm, an action for slander, was dismissed on motion of Francis T. Murray, attorney for defendant, who moved for a dismissal with costs when the plaintiff's attorney stated he was unable to proceed with the trial because of absence of an important witness and also on the grounds that he had just been fatigued in the case and was not familiar with the case. Arthur B. Ewig, attorney of record for plaintiff, was succeeded by Herman Katz. Mr. Katz said he had been subpoenaed and received the papers in the case only that morning and had not been given sufficient time to prepare for trial. He asked a week to prepare on the theory that one of the important witnesses was employed on a barge and it would take time to locate him.

Mr. Murray objected to a delay, stating that the case had been on the day calendar for a week and under the rule once a case was on the day calendar it must either be tried or dismissed when reached unless of some real reason which arose after the case had been placed on the day calendar. He said Mr. Katz had known the case was on the calendar and had talked about the case last week and there was no reason why witnesses had not been secured as time had been ample. Further Mr. Murray argued that the defendant had been in court at the last term for a long time ready for the case over the cause of illness. At that time Judge Foster put the case over with the understanding that it would be disposed of at this term and upon payment of $25 witness fees to the defendant. These fees, he said, had not been paid. He asked the court to dismiss the case. The defendant, he said, was employed in New Jersey and had been present in court for several days with witnesses. Judge Russell dismissed the complaint with costs.

Court recessed until 10 o'clock this morning.

The Rights of Way Committee of the Board of Supervisors reported this morning that it had obtained all of the needed-rights of way for the construction of the East Chester street By-pass of Route 9-W. The city authorities have the needed rights of way in the city, and all of the preliminary work and details for the construction of the By-pass over East Chester street have been completed and it is expected that the state highway department will include the road in the next available letting, either the last of this month or early in April.

As the By-pass through East Chester street will be only 30 feet wide, it was necessary for the city authorities to adopt a no parking ordinance for East Chester street on the westerly side of the street from Broadway to a point near the intersection of Wood street. Last week the Common Council adopted the ordinance.

The emergency relief bureau is pushing the work of laying a new sewer and water main in East Chester street, and expects to have the work completed in time so that it will not hold up construction of the road as soon as the contract is let by the state.

In the city the By-pass will use East Chester street from Broadway and over Flatbush avenue through property of the City Home to the city limits. The rights of way from the city limits to where the By-pass books on to 9-W just beyond the Saugerties road railroad crossing, have now been obtained by the supervisors' committee.

The new By-pass will be of concrete construction from curb to curb on East Chester street and over the new alignment to where the road books onto 9-W.

TWO MEN ARRESTED FOR FIGHTING, FINED $10 EACH

Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning Officer Fitzgerald found two men staging a fight on lower Hasbrouck avenue, and placed them under arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct. The men were John Wisneski of 173 Murray street and Irving Balloun of 24 Chambers street. Later in police court each man pleaded guilty and was fined $10. They paid their fines.

Johnson at Chicago

Chicago, March 19 (AP)—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson says he believes the Blue Eagle has a "noose around its neck" and is being choked to death. The fiery former NRA administrator told an audience last night that the bird, however, "might be brought back to life." He said the NRA had "done more for the little fellow than anything else that has been done for business. Johnson, who appeared as guest lecturer on a Northwestern University series, said he was "not here to continue the recent echoing controversy with Huey Long or Father Coughlin. I have set to answer their lies and insinuations." He promised he would answer when they "put it all on record." He lauded the Roosevelt program, predicted new pioneers in "economic migrations," expressed no fear of the spread of college "Reds."

Henry Ross Acquitted

Leeds, Eng., March 19 (AP)—Henry Ross, accused of kidnapping a boy in England 21 years ago and taking him to New Jersey, was acquitted by a jury today at the court's direction. In a trembling voice, the white-haired Ross pleaded not guilty. The prosecution offered no evidence. When Ross was committed to trial February 7 it was charged he had obtained permission to take John William Whittear, 4, on a fishing trip. Instead, it was said, he boarded a ship for the United States and settled with the boy in Newark. Authorities quoted Ross as saying the boy's mother told him he was the father. She denied saying this. A warrant for Ross' arrest was issued in 1914 but was not served until last January. Ross returned to England in 1922.

Rules For Long Life

New York, March 19 (AP)—If you wish to live long, Arthur Dougherty, Rees, biologist, told a symposium on physical fitness, leave liquor and tobacco alone. It is some John W. Wood, 88, of Springfield, Mass., and the chairman asked him if he took a drink once in a while. "Twice in a while," replied the octogenarian. Then came Isaac Newton Lewis, 88, of Jamaica, who was asked if he smoked. He did, it seemed, and had since he was 19. Without warning, Hela Tokaji of Brooklyn, a mere 73, bounced to his feet, his great white mustache waving as he leaned forward and snarled: "I like to fight. My pet subject is politics."

27 Killed in Riot

Karachi, India, March 19 (AP)—Twenty-seven Mohammedans were killed and 97 injured today when police stopped a riot of 100,000 demonstrators against the execution of a fellow Muslim with a volley of shots.

Munitions Group Drafts Sweeping Plan to Limit All Heavy War Profits

Industrial Salaries Would Be Put at Top of $10,000 With 3 Per Cent Allowed on Most Profits in Proposed Plan.

PLAN IN OUTLINE

Assessment, Collection of Income Taxes Quarterly is Item on List; Salary Publicity Another.

Washington, March 19 (AP)—A sweeping plan for wiping out heavy war profits by limiting industrial salaries to $10,000 a year and seizing virtually all profits over three per cent was made public today by the senate munitions committee.

It was outlined by John T. Flynn, New York writer, who was retained by the committee to put into shape its findings bearing on efforts to make war unprofitable.

"It is more important to prevent war," Flynn said, gesturing with his hands, "than to take the profits out of war."

Committee members, who looked upon the red-faced, gray-haired writer as an authority on war taxing methods, sat quietly attentive as he talked, rarely interrupting with a question.

Flynn's girl secretary sat beside him, smoking as he testified.

He roughly outlined the committee's plan as follows:

"To take 50 per cent of the first 6 per cent profits of corporations, and 100 per cent on all over that in excess profits."

"To limit all individual incomes to $10,000 and to take all over that in income taxes."

"To impose income taxes on everybody from $1,000 or less up in sufficient amount to cover war expenses."

"To assess and collect income taxes quarterly out of income as it is made."

"To check numerous known methods of defeating income tax levies."

"Publicity of all salaries immediately upon declaration of war."

"Industrial management draft—all general officers of corporations to be registered in a draft of management and when deemed necessary inducted into military forces of the United States."

"Close all commodity exchanges, forbid speculation in commodities, fix commodity prices at proper levels and allocate to essential processes."

"Regulate all new private financing through a war finance agency."

"A war finance corporation to assist in financing of essential war industries."

"Commandeering of essential industries and services."

"Licensing industries, establishment of priorities in purchasing and when essential, price-fixing."

Steingut Given Axe

Albany, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—Speaker Irwin Steingut of the New York state assembly has a new type of gavel and the clerks who sit in front of him have more use than ever for their steel helmets. It is an axe, presented by Republicans with the terse comment: "It's a reminder of what happens to our Republican bills in the powerful rules committee of which you are in charge, Mr. Speaker." For the past week Steingut has had trouble keeping the head on his regular gavel when he pounded for order. Several times it has bounced in the general direction of the clerks and the Republicans were "fearful" one of them would get hurt. Last night the clerks took matters in their own hands, however, and appeared wearing steel helmets.

No Change in Howe's Condition

Washington, March 19 (AP)—Louis M. Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, showed no improvement today in his serious illness. The White House, where he is confined with a cardiac ailment, issued the following statement: "Secretary Howe passed a comfortable night but no improvement in his condition has been noted by attending physicians."

Roosevelt Maintains Attitude of Extreme Caution On Germany

Washington, March 19 (AP)—The Roosevelt administration today adopted an attitude of extreme caution in its consideration of the military clauses of the Versailles treaty and of its separate peace with the United States.

President Roosevelt was represented at the White House as intending to take time to assay the developments fully. Accordingly, it was felt that there was little prospect of a quick decision on steps, if any, that might be taken by this government.

Meanwhile, there was no sign of concern at the White House at the whirl of events abroad.

Published reports that the President is under strong pressure to keep hands off the German armaments situation were denied at the White House, where it was said Mr. Roosevelt neither has received any such advice nor asked any.

The President had a luncheon talk today with William C. Bullitt, ambassador to Russia, but it was emphasized that this engagement, made several days ago, had no relation to the German armaments move.

Conversations continued during the day at the state department between Secretary Hull and Norman Davis, ambassador-at-large and personal European observer for the President. The usual silence was preserved in that quarter.

There was likelihood that they might meet with President Roosevelt again late today as they did yesterday but there was no official announcement on this subject.

President Roosevelt and his advisors on foreign affairs were expected to consult today on the advisability of protesting against Germany's violation of the American-German peace treaty.

It was learned authoritatively that, while weighing all possible courses of action, American officials have not yet definitely decided whether to make representations against military expansion of the Reich in defiance of provisions of the Versailles treaty, and the American accord, enter into consultation with the former allies on possible joint action, or attempt to avoid any entanglements by ignoring the developments in Europe.

There was no immediate comment in official circles on Berlin reports that the United States was considering notifying Germany that increasing its armed forces to 500,000 men is an open violation of the peace treaty.

What, if any, action is taken by the United States government depends on future developments only now taking shadowy form in Europe's chancelleries, it was said.

Grand Jury Probe Ordered

Columbus, O., March 19 (AP)—A grand jury investigation of Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins' charges that Governor Martin L. Davey's campaign committee solicited funds from firms selling goods to the Ohio Relief Commission was ordered today. Affidavits supporting Hopkins' assertion that he had "incontrovertible evidence" to back up his charge of a "shakedown" were received by Attorney General John W. Bricker, a Republican, and Donald J. Hopkins, Franklin county prosecutor. Hopkins said the Franklin county grand jury, now in session, would take up the case Thursday.

Await Identification of Gems

Miami Beach, Fla., March 19 (AP)—A fortune in jewels taken from Mrs. Margaret Bell, wealthy New Yorker, by two masked bandits here January 24, and mysteriously returned to police last night, today awaited their identification. Detective Chief Eugene E. Bryant reported finding the loot, variously appraised at $150,000 to $250,000, in his automobile after he and an insurance company detective had responded to an anonymous phone call summoning them to a beach hotel.

Utility Strike Deferred

New York, March 19 (AP)—The long-threatened strike of utilities employees, calculated to paralyze a great city's electric service, was deferred today through the efforts of mediators. Mrs. Eleanor M. Herrick, director of the National Labor Board, and mediator in the dispute between the Brooklyn Edison Company and the Brotherhood of Utility Employees, said that the union had agreed to defer its deadline for the walk-out.

Church Fire

Brussels, March 19 (AP)—A message to the colonial ministry today reported the finding of the plane in which Edward Howard, governor of French Equatorial Africa, and his party had been missing, with all its occupants dead.

Belgium Cabinet Crisis May Upset the Gold Bloc

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

London, March 19—A diplomatic source declared today that Belgium, whose cabinet headed by Premier Georges Theunis resigned today, will have difficulties in getting a new cabinet to support the gold standard and that if Belgium departs officially from the gold basis, she may take other members of the gold bloc with her.

As official and diplomatic circles began their study of the situation created in Brussels, exchange transactions reacted sharply, gold currencies weakened in relation to the British pound and the United States dollar slid down in sympathy.

Although the dollar opened firm at 4.75 1/2 to the pound, as compared with yesterday's close of 4.76 3/4, it later slipped to 4.75 1/2.

The dollar closed officially at 4.77 1/4 to the pound, a net loss of 3/4 cent to the pound.

The French franc closed at 72.38 to the pound as compared to yesterday's close of 72.18, and the belga closed at 20.44 to the pound after touching 20.08.

Military Experts Say 17 Million Men Ready For Vast Mobilization

New York, March 19 (AP)—Military experts looked behind a column of standing armies 3,500,000 strong and pondered today the vast European reserve force—17,000,000 men—ready for mobilization in event of war.

To train these 20,500,000 soldiers the leading military nations of Europe have spent 45 billion dollars since the World War.

As statesmen studied Great Britain's protest that Germany was endangering security by conscripting a standing army of 500,000, European nations were spending 30 to 40 per cent of their incomes "for defense."

Great Britain remained the only major power whose army was recruited on a voluntary basis. The others demand that their young men serve an average of two years with the colors.

France and Italy, developers of the greatest known war machines in Europe, have followed notably similar designs.

Both have heavily fortified frontiers as first lines of defense. Both call their citizens to the colors at the age of 21. In France the period of active service is two years and reservist duty ends at 49. The Italian is on active duty 18 months, but on reserve until 55.

The French standing army numbers 600,000; some 2,500,000 mobilizable men complete her immediate strength. The French air force, for which a large part of the annual $72,200,000 military budget goes, has 2,000 planes.

Italy's standing army is approximately 700,000 with an equal number in reserve. She spends $212,000,000 annually on armaments, devoting huge sums to artillery for the defense of the vulnerable Alpine passes.

Great Britain has a standing army of 450,000 volunteers. They are among the best trained and best equipped in the world. Britain, with a budget of $550,000,000, is turning to mechanization of highly mobile units. She has 1,500,000 additional mobilizable troops and 1,125 planes.

Germany and Russia puzzle the military minds. Russia because no one knows how well she has trained and equipped her forces; Germany because no one knows whether she has trained her men.

Russia spends $400,000,000 a year training annual classes of 800,000 men in addition to her standing army of more than 700,000. It is estimated she could equip in some fashion a partly trained army of 4,000,000 soldiers.

Germany has been limited by the Versailles treaty to a standing army of 100,000. Some observers, however, point to her military-trained police and the private militia organizations as the basis for an estimate that she has trained 350,000 men in the last five years and could put 1,500,000 in the field.

Ireland, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia complete the list of military European nations. Born of the World War, they have built their war machines wholly since that time, all on the French model.

Poland can place an army of 1,500,000 in the field. Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, each 1,000,000. The Polish standing army numbers 240,000; Yugoslavia, 130,000, and Czechoslovakia 100,000.

Signs 181 Mills

Albany, N. Y., March 19 (AP)—Speeding up his work to keep step with the volume of legislation being enacted in the closing days of the 1935 legislature, Governor Herbert H. Lehman today signed his signature to 24 more measures, bringing the total now down to 181. The latest bills to be enacted today are mostly of local and minor nature.

Big Squadron of Planes in Flight Over Berlin Taken as a Direct Rejection of the Versailles Treaty.

BRITISH CRITICISED

French and Russians Say Great Britain's Note Was "Weak"; Seen on Side of Germany.

(By The Associated Press)

Germany flew a big squadron of fighting airplanes over Berlin today in proof of the declaration that the arms clauses of the treaty of Versailles no longer apply to Germany and official German sources intimated that the next portion of the treaty to go would be that preventing Germany from building fortifications along the Rhine.

Both the French and the Russians referred to Great Britain's protest against German rearmament as "weak" and the Russians added to this criticism the claim that Great Britain had "capitulated" to Germany.

Well-informed sources in Berlin said they would not be surprised if the United States would protest to Germany against the reestablishment of a complete German armament as a violation of the German-American treaty.

In Washington, however, President Roosevelt and his advisers adopted an attitude of extreme caution and no word was forthcoming from the White House as to what action, if any, the United States might take.

In answer to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's announcement on a conscript German army the Finance committee of the French Chamber of Deputies approved an appropriation of 20,000,000 francs ($1,320,000) for rearmament bonuses in the French army.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain told the House of Commons that the government would appoint a special sub-committee to investigate England's defenses against aerial attack.

The British government asked the commons for an appropriation of nearly $18,000,000 this year more than last year for air defense.

A demand for the restoration of conscription in Austria was made by Minister of the Interior Emil Fey in his newspaper, the Oesterreich Abendzeitung. He declared that now is the time for conscription "to be taken up by other states which have been restricted in military establishments by the peace treaty."

Berlin Exultant.

Berlin, March 19.—A squadron of German bombers and pursuit planes roared over Berlin today in the first military air maneuvers since the World War as Germany, exulting in Reichsfuehrer Hitler's announcement that Germany was rearmament, feverishly celebrated this mass demonstration of fitness to fight.

Even as the planes flew overhead, rumors flew through Berlin that the United States would protest against the violation of the German-American peace treaty and that Germany had concluded a military alliance with Japan.

At the same time German officials said that, now that the arms limitation imposed by the treaty of Versailles had been disregarded, the demilitarized Rhineland zones provisions of the treaty would be the next to be eliminated—unless France accepts the demilitarization of similar areas on French soil.

Germany's fighting planes appeared suddenly over the capital this afternoon. They flew low. The roar of their motors filled the streets with thunder.

For almost an hour they crossed and criss-crossed the city. The entire population of Berlin rushed out of houses and offices. The people stood in the streets and hung out of windows, shouting and waving.

The city's normal life was halted.

Russo Challenges "Tuff Guy" Gassaway

Washington, March 18 (AP).—Senator Huey P. Long has an intense partisan in Louisiana who is willing to fight representative Gassaway (D-Okla.) with "six-shooters" for the latter's attacks on the "Kingfish".

He is Anthony Russo, of New Orleans.
Russo sent a challenge to the Oklahoma congressman today in care of the Washington office of the Associated Press. In a small package containing a miniature black sombbrero with a yellow ribbon labeled "ride 'em cowboy," he enclosed this letter:

"Mr. Tuff Guy at Washington, D.
C., the Oklahoma cowboy congressman.
"I read in the New Orleans Times
Picaune were you are pretty tough.
And you going to slap Huey Long down. Let me tell you what I think about you and your six shooter. I am not from the west, but I am from that great state of La. from where Huey Long come from. And I will lay down my life for any man that bars his name.

"Now Mr. Big Shot you lay down your life for Mr. Roosevelt. You take your six shooter. And I'll take mine. It means one thing. The fastest man to the trigger.

"Take me up."
A note attached to the sombrero, which had a long blue feather in the crown, said:

"See if this hat fits that cowboy congressman."

POULTRYMEN DISCUSSED VARIOUS PROBLEMS FRIDAY

About 50 poultrymen gathered at the Court House here Friday evening and discussed various poultry problems with Professors L. E. Weaver and E. Y. Smith of Cornell. John Miller, chairman of the Farm Bureau poultry committee, acted as chairman of the meeting.

During the meeting the matter of retail egg grading law enforcement was brought up for discussion. A.
P. Kaplan of Accord presented a resolution which was to the effect that the poultrymen of Ulster county urgently request the state legislature to appropriate funds to enforce present state law on the retail grading of eggs. The resolution contends that state poultrymen are suffering severe financial penalties and that the public is being defrauded. Copies of the resolution were sent to the governor and other officials.

Gaunt and travel worn, an Irish setter belonging to C. F. Rogers of Concordia, Kas., left the farm where he had been placed several months previously and returned to his mas-

AT END OF STRATOSPHERE HOP

"I'm too deaf from the roar of the motor to talk," Willey Post told
Maj. John Berry, Cleveland Airport superintendent, just after the noted flyer landed at the Ohio city. Post, attempting a record-breaking transcontinental flight through the stratosphere, was forced to land when it was discovered that his oxygen supply was dangerously low. Post (right) is

Army Maneuvers on Large Scale Planned

Would Bring Regular Army and National Guard Forces Together for 15 Day Training Period in the Field.

A plan is being formulated for summer and fall army maneuvers of large scale which will bring the regular army and the national guard
forces together for a 15 day training
period instead of the usual summer
drills and encampments which have been customary. This plan is being drafted in the expectation that Congress will approve a provision of such a program included in the pending war department appropriation bill. If this is done one of the big maneuvers probably will be centered at Pine Camp, N. Y., with some 60,000 men engaged.

Pine Camp has been the training
quarters for the local artillery outfits for several years. The plans now
under consideration would bring together the regular army and national guard forces of the First, Second and Third Corps Areas, with
headquarters at Boston, Governors
Island and Baltimore, respectively.
The big concentration of troops at Pine Camp will depend upon the appropriation of Congress of necessary
funds for the transportation of the soldiers and guardsmen from their states for the concentration.

If this plan is carried out the maneuvers probably would be held
in August with all of the state organizations affected using this period for their summer training instead of the usual annual summer
encampments. Similar maneuvers
are being planned in various parts of the country if the money is provided by Congress.

"Italian" Day at Rotary Club Meeting

The International Service Committee of Kingston Rotary, under the chairmanship of Joseph J. Morgan, will conduct "Italian" day as a feature of the Rotary Club meeting next Wednesday, March 20. This special program is expected to be one of the best ever sponsored by the local service club, and members and guests
of Kingston Kiwanis have been invited to attend.

The Italian government will be represented by Vice Consul Don
Guido Colonna, and John De Gasperi,
president of the Italian-American
Club, is expected to attend along with other representative Italian-
Americans residing in this vicinity.

The main speaker will be Colonel Girard L. McEntee of the United States army, author of the book,
"Italy's Part in Winning the World War." The Colonel has chosen this topic for his discourse.

Adolescents Sent Home

Brooklyn, N. Y., March 18 (AP).—
Came the dawn, and the crime prevention bureau had practically cornered the market in sailors' sweethearts. A squad of detectives went through the bars and cabarets
of the Navy Yard district in the early hours today gathering up girls
under 21 and sending them home
to their parents. Altogether 69
were picked up. The dozen or so
who had come to New York from Connecticut, New Jersey and Massachusetts were put on trains and sent back to their parents. Local mothers
were warned to see that their daughters kept off the streets at night. The drive was conducted under the law giving the crime prevention bureau police powers over adolescents and is part of the bureau's comprehensive effort to keep
young people as much out of trouble
as possible.

POST'S STRATOSPHERE FLIGHT ENDS IN CLEVELAND

Willey Post's second attempt to cross the continent from Los Angeles to New York ended in Cleveland, it had slid to a stop at a Cleveland airport. The landing gear of the plane had been disengaged on the floor took

"EXPERIENCE IN MACHINERY LED ME TO pick rollator refrigeration"

Of course. Anyone skilled in mechanics would choose Norge for its mechanical superiority. Just as an economist would choose it for its savings. Or a modern housekeeper for its convenience. Or an interior decorator for its beauty.

Consider all these factors when you select a refrigerator for your home. When you have satisfied yourself that Norge is the beautiful refrigerator, with the best planned interior arrangement and the most conveniences, then look to the mechanism.

The Norge Rollator cold-making mechanism has but three slowly moving parts, is surplus powered, almost everlasting, actually improves with use. And it uses so little current that Norge savings—in food and refrigeration costs—are as high as $11 a month. Some Norge owners report even greater savings.

THE ROLLATOR... Smooth, even, rolling power instead of the hurried back-and-forth action of the ordinary refrigerator mechanism. Result—more cooling power for the current used. Only Norge has the Rollator.

NORGE Rollator refrigeration
